4. Section seventy of the Principal Act is amended by omitting sub-sections (1.) and (2.) and inserting in their stead the following sub-sections:—

Powers of inspection.

“(1.) A quarantine officer may board any vessel that is in a port or place in Australia and—

- (a) enter and inspect any part of the vessel;
- (b) inspect any animals or goods on board the vessel; and
- (c) inspect the passenger list, log, manifest, journal and any other papers relating to the vessel or to any persons, animals or goods on board the vessel.

“(2.) The master of a vessel shall, if so required by a quarantine officer, produce to him for inspection the papers referred to in paragraph (c) of the last preceding sub-section.

Penalty: Twenty pounds.”.

5. Section seventy-two of the Principal Act is repealed and the following section inserted in its stead:—

“72.—(1.) A quarantine officer may require the master of a vessel to cause all or any of the persons on the vessel to be informed that, for the purposes of quarantine inspection, a muster of those persons will be held at a time, and at a place on or in the vicinity of the vessel, specified by the quarantine officer.

Medical inspections and examinations.

“(2.) The master of a vessel shall comply with a requirement made by a quarantine officer under the last preceding sub-section and, whether or not such a requirement is made, shall, by all reasonable means, facilitate the inspection by a quarantine officer of persons on the vessel.

“(3.) A person on a vessel shall, unless prevented by illness or some other cause, attend a muster of which he is informed in pursuance of a requirement made under sub-section (1.) of this section.

“(4.) If so required by a quarantine officer, a person on a vessel shall, unless prevented by illness or some other cause, attend, for the purpose of quarantine inspection, at a time, and at a place on or in the vicinity of the vessel, specified by the quarantine officer.

“(5.) A person on a vessel, or a person who attends at a place in the vicinity of a vessel in pursuance of sub-section (3.) or (4.) of this section—

- (a) shall answer truly to the best of his knowledge all questions asked him by a quarantine officer concerning his personal health and the likelihood of his having been exposed to infection; and
- (b) if required by a quarantine officer, shall submit to a medical examination.

Penalty: Fifty pounds.”.
