9 Limitation on orders and detention – non-acquittals

(1) If, under section 26(2) or 27(2), the Supreme Court makes an order that the accused be detained in custody until the Tribunal orders otherwise, the court shall indicate to the Tribunal whether, if the special hearing had been normal criminal proceedings against a person who was fit to be tried for and convicted of the offence with which the accused is charged, it would have imposed a sentence of imprisonment.

(2) If, under subsection (1), the Supreme Court indicates that it would have imposed a sentence of imprisonment, it shall nominate a term in respect of that offence, that is the best estimate of the sentence it would have considered appropriate if the special hearing had been normal criminal proceedings against a person who was fit to be tried for that offence and the person had been found guilty of that offence.

10 Limitation on orders and detention – acquittals

(1) If, under section 32 or 33, the Supreme Court makes an order that the accused be detained in custody until the Tribunal orders otherwise, the court shall indicate whether, if the accused had not been acquitted, it would have imposed a sentence of imprisonment.

(2) If, under subsection (1), the Supreme Court indicates that it would have imposed a sentence of imprisonment, it shall nominate a term in respect of that offence, that is the best estimate of the sentence it would have considered appropriate if the accused were a person who had been found guilty of that offence.

11 Limitation on Supreme Court orders

The Supreme Court shall not order that an accused be detained for a period greater than the term indicated by it under section 9(2) or 10, as the case may be.

12 Limitation on orders and detention – dismissal of charge

(1) If under section 37 or 38, the Court of Petty Sessions makes an order that the accused be detained in custody until the Tribunal orders otherwise, the Court of Petty Sessions shall indicate whether, if the charges against the accused had not been dismissed and the accused were a person who had been found guilty of the offence, it would have imposed a sentence of imprisonment.

(2) If, under subsection (1), the Court of Petty Sessions indicates that it would have imposed a sentence of imprisonment, it shall nominate a term in respect of that offence, that is the best estimate of the sentence it would have considered appropriate if the accused were a person who had been found guilty of that offence.

13 Limitation on orders and detention – Court of Petty Sessions

(1) If under section 44, the Court of Petty Sessions makes an order that the accused be detained in custody until the Tribunal orders otherwise, the Court of Petty Sessions shall indicate whether, if the hearing had been a normal criminal hearing against a person who was fit to be tried for and convicted of the offence with which the accused is charged, it would have imposed a sentence of imprisonment.

(2) If, under subsection (1), the Court of Petty Sessions indicates that it would have imposed a sentence of imprisonment, it shall nominate a term in respect of that offence, that is the best estimate of the sentence it would have considered appropriate if the hearing had been a normal criminal hearing against a person who was fit to be tried for that offence and the person had been found guilty of that offence.

14 Limitation on Court of Petty Sessions orders

The Court of Petty Sessions shall not order that an accused be detained for a period greater than the term indicated by it under section 12(2) or 13(2).

15 How relevant court may inform itself

For sections 9, 10, 12 and 13, in determining the sentence it would have imposed, the relevant court may inform itself and consider the evidence and submissions that it would were the court determining the sentence to be imposed in normal criminal proceedings.

16 Criteria for detention

For this Part, other than Division 5 (except section 44), in making a decision which could include an order for detention, the Supreme Court or Court of Petty Sessions shall consider the following criteria:

- (a) the nature and extent of the accused's mental dysfunction or mental impairment, including the effect it is likely to have on the person's behaviour in the future;
- (b) whether or not, if released –
 - (i) the accused's health and safety is likely to be substantially impaired; or
 - (ii) the accused is likely to be a danger to the community;
- (c) the nature and circumstances of the offence with which the accused is charged;
- (d) the principle that a person should not be detained in prison unless no other reasonable option is available;
- (e) any recommendation made by the Tribunal as to how the accused should be dealt with.

17 Assessment whether emergency detention required

(1) If, in proceedings before the Court of Petty Sessions, it has reasonable grounds for believing that an accused requires immediate treatment or care by reason of his or her being mentally dysfunctional or mentally impaired, the Court of Petty Sessions may, without requiring the accused to submit to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal, order that –

- (a) the accused be taken by a police officer to the hospital for examination by a medical practitioner or a psychiatrist for the purpose of determining whether the accused is mentally dysfunctional or mentally impaired but a medical practitioner who believes the defendant may be suffering from a mental impairment must seek the opinion of a psychiatrist (unless the medical practitioner is a psychiatrist); and

- (b) the accused may only be released into the custody of a police officer –
 - (i) by the medical superintendent; or
 - (ii) if the accused is found to be mentally dysfunctional or mentally impaired requiring detention and care – by the medical superintendent and if the person has been examined by a psychiatrist other than the medical superintendent – with the approval of the psychiatrist; and
 - (c) on being so released, the accused be dealt with in 1 of the following ways:
 - (i) subject to subsection (2) be admitted to bail by the Clerk of the Court of Petty Sessions;
 - (ii) be held in the custody of a police officer who shall cause the accused to be brought before a court as soon as practicable for the purpose of the court determining whether or not to grant bail;
- (2) If, when making an order under subsection (1)(c)(i), the Court of Petty Sessions specifies terms and conditions on which bail is to be granted, the Clerk may grant bail subject to those terms and conditions.
- (3) If, under this section, an accused who is taken to the hospital –
- (a) is released or discharged from the hospital, whether or not detained for care, otherwise than into the custody of a police officer; or
 - (b) leaves the hospital, otherwise than in the custody of a police officer;
- a police officer may arrest the accused without warrant for the purposes of the terms of the order being satisfied.

Division 2 – Unfitness to plead

18 Referral to Tribunal

- (1) If –
- (a) a person has been committed for trial for an indictable offence; and
 - (b) the issue of fitness to plead to the charge is raised by a party to the proceedings or by the Supreme Court; and
 - (c) the court is satisfied that there is a question as to the person's fitness to plead to the charge;

the court shall order the person to be examined by a psychiatrist and upon completion of the psychiatrist's examination to submit to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal to enable the Tribunal to determine, having regard to the opinion of the psychiatrist who examined the person and such other matters as may be relevant, whether or not the person is fit to plead to the charge.

(2) If the Supreme Court makes an order under subsection (1), it shall adjourn the proceedings to which the order relates and shall make any orders it considers appropriate, including the granting of bail to the person who is the subject of the order.

- (3) If, on the hearing of an information laid before the Court of Petty Sessions –
- (a) the issue of fitness to plead is raised by a party to the proceedings or by the Court of Petty Sessions; and
 - (b) the Court of Petty Sessions is satisfied that there is a question as to the person's fitness to plead;

the Court of Petty Sessions shall order the person to be examined by a psychiatrist and upon completion of the psychiatrist's examination submit to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal to enable the Tribunal to determine, having regard to the opinion of the psychiatrist who examined the person and such other matters as may be relevant, whether or not the person is fit to plead to the charge.

19 Person found fit to plead

If the Tribunal notifies the Supreme Court that it has determined that a person who is the subject of an order under section 18 (1) is fit to plead to a charge –

- (a) the proceedings brought against the person in respect of the offence charged shall continue in accordance with ordinary criminal procedures; or
- (b) if the court considers it appropriate –
 - (i) the court shall discharge the jury originally empanelled for the proceedings and empanel a new jury; and
 - (ii) the proceedings shall recommence in accordance with ordinary criminal procedures.

20 Action pending determination by Tribunal

If –

- (a) an accused is charged with a serious offence or a non-serious offence; and
- (b) the Supreme Court has made an order under section 17(1); and the court may, having regard to the time that is likely to be taken by the Tribunal before it makes its determination, discharge the jury.

 - (a) an order requiring the accused to be detained in custody;

 - (a) an accused is charged with a serious offence; and
 - (b) the Supreme Court has made an order under section 18(1) in relation to the accused; and

- (2) If this section applies, the Supreme Court shall –

 - (a) if a jury has been empanelled – discharge the jury; and
 - (b) order that the accused be detained in custody or released on bail; and
 - (c) adjourn the proceedings.

23 Special hearings

- (1) The Supreme Court shall conduct a special hearing in relation to an accused who is the subject of an order under section 18 (1), if the Tribunal notifies the court that –

 - (a) it has determined that the accused is unfit to plead to a charge and is unlikely to become fit within 12 months after the determination; or
 - (b) having determined that the accused was unfit to plead to a charge but was likely to become fit within 12 months after the determination, it has determined that, the period of 12 months having elapsed, the accused remains unfit to plead.
- (2) If subsection (1) (a) applies, the Supreme Court shall, if a jury has been empanelled, discharge the jury.

24 Nature and conduct of special hearing

- (1) Subject to this section, the Supreme Court shall conduct a special hearing as nearly as possible as if it were an ordinary criminal proceeding.

- (2) A special hearing shall be a trial by jury –
 - (a) unless –
 - (i) the Supreme Court is satisfied that the accused is capable of making an election to have a special hearing to be a trial by a single judge without a jury before the court first fixes a date for the hearing; and
 - (ii) the accused makes the election before that date; or
 - (b) unless –
 - (i) the Supreme Court is satisfied that the accused is incapable of making the election mentioned in paragraph (a) (i); and
 - (ii) before the court first fixes a date for the hearing, any legal representative or guardian of the accused notifies the court that, in his or her opinion, it is in the best interests of the accused for the special hearing to be a trial by a single judge without a jury.
- (3) If –
 - (a) the accused makes an election under subsection (2) (a) (ii); or
 - (b) a legal representative or guardian notifies the Supreme Court under subsection (2) (b) (ii); the special hearing shall be by single judge without a jury.

- (4) Despite subsection (2) (b), if before the date fixed by the Supreme Court for the hearing –
 - (a) the court is satisfied that the accused is capable of making the election mentioned in subsection (2) (a) (i); and
 - (b) the accused notifies the court that he or she objects to the special hearing being a trial by a single judge without a jury; the special hearing shall be a trial by jury.

(5) Unless the Supreme Court otherwise orders, the accused shall have legal representation at a special hearing.

(6) A determination by the Tribunal that the accused is unfit to plead to the charge is not to be taken to be an impediment to his or her being represented at a special hearing.

(7) At a special hearing, the accused is to be taken to have pleaded not guilty in respect of the offence charged.

- (8) If a special hearing is a trial by jury, the Supreme Court shall, at the commencement of the hearing, explain to the jury –
- (a) the meaning of unfitness to plead; and
 - (b) that the accused is unfit to plead to the charge in accordance with ordinary criminal procedures; and
 - (c) that the purpose of the special hearing is to ensure that, despite the unfitness of the accused to plead in accordance with ordinary criminal procedures, the accused should be acquitted unless it can be proved beyond reasonable doubt that, on the evidence available, the accused engaged in the conduct required for the offence charged (or an alternative offence); and
 - (d) the actions that are available to the jury under section 25; and
 - (e) the legal and practical consequences of those actions.

25 Verdicts available at special hearing

- (1) At a special hearing that is a trial by jury, the jury shall, if satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the accused engaged in the conduct required for the offence charged (or an alternative offence, if not satisfied in relation to the offence charged), advise the court accordingly.
- (2) If the jury is not satisfied in accordance with subsection (1) –
- (a) the jury shall return a verdict of not guilty in respect of the offence charged; and
 - (b) the accused shall be dealt with as though the jury had returned that verdict at an ordinary trial.
- (3) If, at a special hearing by a single judge without a jury, the judge is not satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the accused engaged in the conduct required for the offence charged (or an alternative offence, if not satisfied in relation to the offence charged) –
- (a) the judge shall find the accused not guilty of the offence charged; and
 - (b) the accused shall be dealt with as if the accused had been found not guilty at an ordinary trial.
- (4) If, at a special hearing, the jury (or, if the special hearing is by a single judge without a jury, the judge) is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the accused engaged in the conduct required for the offence charged (or an alternative offence, if not satisfied in relation to the offence charged), the finding –
- (a) is not a basis in law for recording a conviction for the offence charged (or an alternative offence); and
 - (b) except as provided in section 28 (Action if accused becomes fit to plead after special hearing), bars further prosecution of the accused for any offence in relation to the conduct.

26 Non-acquittal at special hearing – non-serious offence

(1) This section applies if –

- (a) an accused is charged with an offence other than a serious offence; and
- (b) at a special hearing that is a trial –

 - (ii) by jury – the jury advises the court under section 25(1).

(2) If this section applies, the Supreme Court shall order that the accused be detained in custody until the Tribunal orders otherwise unless, in consideration of the criteria for detention in section 16, it is satisfied that it is more appropriate to order that the accused submit to the jurisdiction of the Tribunal to enable the Tribunal to make a mental health order.

(3) If the Supreme Court is satisfied under subsection (2), it shall make an order accordingly.

28 Action if accused becomes fit to plead after special hearing

(1) This section applies if –

(2) A Crown law officer must consider whether to take further proceedings against the accused in relation to the offence.

CHAPTER 5 — PROCEDURE, EVIDENCE, VERDICT, ETC

117 What defects do not vitiate indictment

No indictment shall be held bad or insufficient for want of an averment of any matter unnecessary to be proved, or necessarily implied, nor for the omission of the words ‘as appears by the record’, or ‘with force and arms’, or ‘against the peace’, nor for the insertion or omission of the words ‘against the form of the statute’, nor for designating any person by a name of office, or other descriptive appellation, instead of his or her proper name, nor for omitting to state the time when the offence was committed, nor for stating the time wrongly, if time is not of the essence of the offence, nor for stating the time imperfectly, nor for stating the offence to have been committed on a day subsequent to the finding of the indictment, or on an impossible day, or a day that never happened, nor for want of a proper or perfect venue, or a proper or formal conclusion, nor for want of or imperfection in any addition of the accused, nor for want of any statement of the value or price of any matter or thing, or the amount of damage, or injury, in any case if such value, or price, or amount, is not of the essence of the offence.

118 Formal objections—when to be taken

Every objection to an indictment, for any formal defect apparent on the face of it, shall be taken by demurrer or motion to quash the indictment before the jury are sworn, and every court before which any such objection is taken may thereupon cause the indictment to be forthwith amended, and afterwards the trial shall proceed as if no such defect had appeared.

119 Judgment on demurrer to indictment

In all cases the judgment against the accused on demurrer shall be that he or she ‘answer over’ to the charge.

120 Traversing indictment

(1) No traverse shall in any case be allowed, or trial postponed, or time to plead to the indictment given, unless the court shall so order.

(2) If the judge is of opinion that the accused ought to be allowed time, either to prepare for his or her defence, or otherwise, the judge shall postpone the trial on the terms that the judge considers appropriate, and may respite the recognisances of the prosecutor and witnesses accordingly.

121 Orders for amendment of indictment, separate trial and postponement of trial

(1) If, before trial, or at any stage of a trial, it appears to the court that the indictment is defective, the court shall make the order for the amendment of the indictment that the court thinks necessary to meet the circumstances of the case, unless, having regard to the merits of the case, the required amendments cannot be made without injustice.

(2) If, before trial, or at any stage of a trial, the court is of opinion that a person accused may be prejudiced or embarrassed in his or her defence because of being charged with more than 1 offence in the same indictment, or that for any other reason it is desirable to direct that the person should be tried separately for 1 or more offences charged in an indictment, the court may order a separate trial of a count or counts of the indictment.

(3) If, before trial, or at any stage of a trial, the court is of opinion that the postponement of the trial of a person accused is expedient as a consequence of the exercise of a power of the court under this Act to amend an indictment or to order a separate trial of a count, the court shall make any order that appears necessary.

(4) If an order of the court is made under this section for a separate trial, or for the postponement of a trial—

- (a) if the order is made during a trial—the court may order that the jury are to be discharged from giving a verdict on the count or counts the trial of which is postponed, or on the indictment, as the case may be; and
- (b) the procedure on the separate trial of a count and the procedure on the postponed trial shall be the same in all respects (if the jury has been discharged), as if the trial had not commenced; and
- (c) the court may make the order as to admitting the accused person to bail and as to the variation of bail arrangements and otherwise that the court thinks fit.

(5) A power of the court under this section shall be in addition to and not in derogation of any other power of the court for the same or similar purposes.

122 Amended indictment

If an indictment is amended, a note of the order for amendment shall be endorsed on the indictment, and the indictment in its amended form shall be treated as the indictment for the purposes of the trial and for the purposes of all proceedings in relation to, or consequent on, the trial.

123 Verdict and judgment valid after amendment

Every verdict, and judgment, given after the making of any amendment under this Act, shall be of the same force and effect, as if the indictment had originally been in the words, and form, in which it is after the amendment.

124 Form of record after amendment

If it is necessary at any time to draw up a formal record, in any case where an amendment has been made, the record may be drawn up in the words and form of the amended indictment, without noticing the fact of amendment.

127 Accessories may be charged together in 1 indictment

For any offence, any number of accessories to the offence, whether before or after the fact, may be charged with substantive offences in the same indictment, and be tried together, although the principal offender is not included in the indictment, or is not in custody or amenable to justice.

128 Indictment charging previous offence also

In an indictment for an offence committed after a previous conviction for an offence, whether indictable or punishable on summary conviction, it shall be sufficient, after charging the subsequent offence, to state that the accused was at a certain time and place convicted of an indictable offence, or an offence punishable on summary conviction, as the case may be, without particularly describing the previous offence.

131 General averment of intent to defraud or injure

(1) If it is necessary to allege an intent to defraud, or injure, it shall be sufficient to allege that the accused did the act with the intent, without alleging an intent to defraud, or injure, any particular person.

(2) In an indictment for doing an act fraudulently, or for a fraudulent purpose, it shall not be necessary to state what was the fraudulent intent, or purpose.

132 Indictment for murder or manslaughter

In an indictment for murder, or manslaughter, it shall not be necessary to set out the way in which, or the means by which, the death alleged was caused, but it shall be sufficient in an indictment for murder to charge that the accused did murder the deceased, and in an indictment for manslaughter to charge that the accused did kill the deceased.

133 Form of indictment against accessories to murder

In an indictment for an offence against the person, if the offence includes an assault, a count may be added for the assault.

135 Indictments for conspiracy

(1) In an indictment for conspiracy it shall not be necessary to state any overt act, and each defendant in any case of conspiracy, whether or not 2 or more defendants are included in the same indictment, may be charged separately, in any count, as having conspired with divers persons, of whom it shall be sufficient to name 1 only, or as having conspired with 1 other named person only, and may be convicted on such count on proof of his or her having unlawfully conspired for the purpose alleged with any 1 such person.

(2) No more than 3 counts against the same defendant shall be inserted in any such indictment, and that the court may, in any case before plea pleaded, order the particulars to be given, that to the court shall seem meet, and that if conspiracies substantially different are charged in the same indictment, the prosecutor may be put to his or her election as to the one on which he or she will proceed.

136 Arraignment etc on charge of previous conviction

(1) No person shall be arraigned, in respect of any previous conviction charged in any indictment, unless he or she is convicted of the subsequent offence charged in the indictment.

(2) On conviction he or she shall forthwith be arraigned, and the jury shall be charged as to the previous conviction, or convictions, and the trial shall proceed in relation to them.

137 Plea of not guilty

If any person arraigned on an indictment pleads not guilty, he or she shall, without further form, be deemed to have put himself or herself on the country for trial, and the court shall, in the usual way, order a jury for his or her trial accordingly.

138 Refusal to plead

If any person being so arraigned stands mute, or will not answer directly to the indictment, the court may order a plea of not guilty to be entered on behalf of the person, and the plea so entered shall have the same effect as if he or she had actually pleaded not guilty.

139 Plea of autrefois convict etc

In any plea of autrefois convict, or of autrefois acquit, it shall be sufficient for the accused to allege that he or she has been lawfully convicted, or acquitted, as the case may be, of the offence charged in the indictment, without specifying the time or place of the previous conviction or acquittal.

Any presumption of law that an offence committed by a wife in the presence of her husband is committed under the coercion of the husband is abolished.

146 Incriminating statements admissible though on oath

No incriminating statement by the accused, offered in evidence in any case, if the statement was made voluntarily, and before any charge preferred against him or her, shall be rejected, because of the statement having been on oath.

147 Evidence of previous conviction charged in indictment

No evidence of any previous conviction, charged in an indictment, shall be offered, except in reply to evidence of character, unless the accused is convicted of the subsequent offence charged in the indictment.

148 Proof of lawful authority or excuse

If, by this Act, doing a particular act or having a specified article or thing in possession without lawful authority or excuse, is made or expressed to be an offence, the proof of lawful authority or excuse shall lie on the accused.

149 Order of closing addresses

(1) In a trial on indictment, the closing address for the defence may be given after the closing address for the prosecution.

(2) If, in the closing address for the defence in a trial on indictment, relevant facts are asserted that are not supported by any evidence that is before the jury, the prosecution may, with the leave of the court, address the jury further in reply to any such assertion.

150 Witnesses in mitigation

(1) This section applies before a court passes sentence on a convicted person.

(2) The court may, at its own initiative or at the request of the prosecution or the convicted person, summon witnesses and examine them on oath in relation to any matter in extenuation of the person's offence.

151 Conviction for alternative offence

If, on the trial of a person for an offence, it appears that the facts in evidence amount in law to another offence, he or she may notwithstanding be found guilty of and sentenced for the firstmentioned offence, and in that case shall not be liable to be prosecuted for the second mentioned offence on the same facts but the court may discharge the jury from giving any verdict on the trial, and direct the person to be indicted for the second mentioned offence.

152 After trial for offence, if alternative verdict possible, no further prosecution

No person tried for an offence, in any case where under this Act he or she may be acquitted of the offence but be found guilty of some other offence, shall be liable to prosecution on the same facts for the other offence.

153 On trial for any offence—verdict of attempt

If on the trial of a person for any offence the jury are not satisfied that he or she is guilty, but are satisfied that he or she is guilty of an attempt to commit, or of an assault with intent to commit, the same, they may acquit him or her of the offence charged, and find him or her guilty of the attempt, or assault, and he or she shall be liable to punishment accordingly.

154 Multiple alternative verdicts

If—

- (a) a person is on trial for an offence against this Act; and
- (b) under this Act, the jury may find the accused not guilty of the offence charged but guilty of another offence against this Act; and
- (c) there is more than 1 other offence of which the accused may be found guilty;

then, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the accused is not liable to be convicted of more than 1 such other offence.

CHAPTER 5A – APPEALS154A Interpretation for this Chapter

- (1) In this Chapter, unless the contrary intention appears—

“appellant” means a person who has been found guilty and desires to appeal or to seek leave to appeal under this Chapter;

“Court” means the Full Court of the Federal Court of Australia;

“sentence” includes any order made by the Supreme Court on a finding of guilt with reference to the person found guilty or his or her property.

154B Determination of appeal in ordinary cases

(1) The Court on any such appeal against a finding of guilt shall allow the appeal if it is of the opinion that the verdict of the jury should be set aside on the ground that it is unreasonable or cannot be supported having regard to the evidence or that the judgment of the Supreme Court should be set aside on the ground of the wrong decision on any question of law or that on any ground there was a miscarriage of justice and in any other case shall dismiss the appeal.

(2) The Court may, notwithstanding that it is of the opinion that the point or points raised by the appeal might be decided in favour of the appellant, dismiss the appeal if it considers that no substantial miscarriage of justice has actually occurred.

(3) Subject to the special provisions of this Division the Court shall, if it allows an appeal against a finding of guilt, quash the finding of guilt and direct a judgment and verdict of acquittal to be entered.

(4) On an appeal against a sentence the Court, if it is of the opinion that some other sentence, whether more or less severe, is warranted in law and should have been passed, shall quash the sentence and pass such other sentence in substitution therefore and in any other case shall dismiss the appeal.

154C Powers of Court in special cases

(1) Where an appellant has been found guilty of an offence and on the indictment the jury could have found him or her guilty of some other, but less serious, offence and it appears to the Court that, although he or she was not and could not be properly found guilty of the offence of which he or she was actually found guilty, the evidence given at his or her trial was such that a reasonable jury correctly instructed must find him or her guilty of the other offence, the Court may, instead of allowing the appeal, substitute for the verdict found by the jury a verdict of guilty of the other offence and pass such sentence in substitution for the sentence passed at the trial as may be warranted.

(2) Where, on the finding of guilt of the appellant, the jury have found a special verdict and the Court considers that a wrong conclusion has been arrived at by the Supreme Court on the effect of that verdict, the Court may, instead of allowing the appeal, order such conclusion to be recorded as appears to the Court to be in law required by the verdict and pass such sentence, whether more or less severe, in substitution for the sentence passed at the trial as may be warranted in law.

(3) If on any appeal it appears to the Court that, although the appellant was guilty of the conduct charged against him, he or she was in a state of abnormality of mind at the time so as not to be responsible therefore according to law, the Court may quash the sentence passed at the trial and order the appellant to be kept in strict custody in the same manner as if a jury had found that fact specially.

Note: The Federal Court of Australia Act 1976 provides for the full court to be the appeals court from the Supreme Court of Norfolk Island (ss. 24 and 25)

154D Power to grant new trial

On an appeal against a finding of guilt on indictment the Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of the appellant, order a new trial in such manner as it thinks fit if the Court considers that a miscarriage of justice has occurred and that, having regard to all the circumstances, such miscarriage of justice can be more adequately remedied by an order for a new trial than by any other order that the Court is empowered to make.

the evidence of the witness must be given from the other place using the audiovisual link unless the court otherwise orders.

- (2) A court must not make an order under subsection (1) unless satisfied that—
 - (a) the prescribed witness prefers to give evidence in the courtroom; or
 - (b) the proceeding will be unreasonably delayed if an order is not made; or
 - (c) there is a substantial risk of the court being unable to ensure that the proceeding is conducted fairly if an order is not made.

(3) Despite subsection (1), the evidence of a child who is an accused person in a proceeding is not to be given in the way described in that subsection.

(4) While a prescribed witness is at a place other than a courtroom for the purpose of giving evidence in accordance with subsection (1), that place is taken for all purposes to be part of the courtroom.

Note: the Evidence Act 2005 makes provision for audio and audio-visual evidence.

- (a) to ensure that the proceeding is conducted fairly; or
- (b) to allow the witness to identify a person or thing; or
- (c) to allow the witness to take part in a view or to watch a demonstration or an experiment; or
- (d) to allow part of the proceeding to be heard elsewhere than in the courtroom.

(4) Notwithstanding any other territory law, the court may direct that a person be excluded from the other place while the prescribed witness is giving evidence.

(5) Nothing in subsection (2), (3) or (4) limits the power of the court to make an order under subsection (1).

160 Jury warning about adverse inference

If, in a proceeding mentioned in section 157(a)(i) (Application—chapter 6), a prescribed witness is to give evidence from a place other than the courtroom in accordance with section 158(1) (Location of prescribed witness giving evidence), the judge must warn the jury to the effect that an inference adverse to the accused should not be drawn from the fact that the witness is giving evidence from the other place.

161 Representation of child

If—

- (a) a child is to give evidence from a place other than a courtroom in accordance with section 158(1) (Location of prescribed witness giving evidence); and
- (b) the child concerned is not separately represented by another person; and
- (c) it appears to the court that the child should be separately represented by another person;

the court may order that the child be separately represented by another person, and the court may make any other order it considers necessary to secure that separate representation.

162 Court's discretions about orders

(1) An order under this Part may be made on the court's own initiative or on application—

- (a) by a party to the proceeding; or
- (b) by or on behalf of a prescribed witness; or
- (c) by a parent or guardian of the prescribed witness.

(2) The court may inform itself as it considers appropriate for the purposes of making an order under this Part.

163 Amendment or revocation of order

A court may make an order for the amendment or revocation of an order made by the court in the proceeding.

164 Failure to comply with chapter 6

(1) The evidence of a prescribed witness in a proceeding is not inadmissible only because the evidence was not given in accordance with this Part.

(2) The validity of a proceeding is not affected by a failure to comply with this Part.

165 Child turning 18 during proceeding

If a person who was a prescribed witness in a proceeding turns 18 years before the proceeding is decided, the person continues to be a prescribed witness for the purpose of the proceeding.

(5) The court may direct that an order under this section apply only to a particular part of the sexual offence proceeding.

(2) For the purpose of making an order under this Division, the court is not bound by the rules of evidence and may inform itself as it considers appropriate.

175 Jury to be warned about adverse inferences

If the complainant gives evidence from a place other than the courtroom where the sexual offence proceeding is being heard and the proceeding is before a jury, the judge must warn the jury to the effect that the jury should not draw any inference adverse to an accused person in the proceeding from the fact the evidence is given from a place other than the courtroom.

176 Failure to comply with Division 3

(1) If the complainant's evidence is not given in accordance with this Division, the evidence is not inadmissible for that reason only.

- (a) has substantial relevance to the facts in issue; or
- (b) is a proper matter for cross-examination about credit.

(2) Evidence (sexual activity evidence) that relates to, or tends to establish, the fact that the complainant was accustomed to engage in sexual activities is not to be regarded as having a substantial relevance to the facts in issue because of any inference it may raise about general disposition.

(3) Sexual activity evidence is not to be regarded as being a proper matter for cross-examination about credit unless the evidence, if accepted, would be likely to substantially impair confidence in the reliability of the complainant's evidence.

(4) If the court gives leave under section 180, it must give written reasons for its decision.

(5) In this section:

proper matter for cross-examination about credit—evidence is a proper matter for cross-examination about credit if the credibility rule under the Evidence Act 2004 section 102 does not apply to the evidence because of that Act, section 103 (Exception: cross-examination as to credibility).

(4) For this section, in deciding whether a communication was made in circumstances that gave rise to a reasonable expectation of confidentiality, it does not matter that the communication was made in the presence of a third party, if the third party was present to assist or encourage communication between the counselled person and counsellor or otherwise assist the counselling process.

Examples of third parties

- 1 a parent, partner, carer, spiritual adviser or other supportive person
- 2 a person present at the request of the counsellor to take notes of the counselling session

 - (b) protected confidence evidence is not admissible in the criminal proceeding, unless the court gives leave.

Example for par (a)

A person could not be required to disclose a protected confidence in response to a request for production of documents in a criminal proceeding unless the court gives leave.

 - (b) set out, or be accompanied by a copy of, any relevant documents.

189 Threshold test—legitimate forensic purpose

- (1) The court must refuse the leave sought under section 188 if not satisfied that the applicant has established a legitimate forensic purpose for seeking the leave.
- (2) To establish a legitimate forensic purpose, the applicant must—
 - (a) identify a legitimate forensic purpose for seeking the leave; and
 - (b) satisfy the court that there is an arguable case that the evidence in relation to which the leave is sought would materially assist the applicant in his or her case in the proceeding.
- (3) The court must decide whether or not to refuse the application under this section before it conducts a preliminary examination of the protected confidence evidence under section 190.

190 Preliminary examination of protected confidence evidence

If the court is satisfied that the applicant has established a legitimate forensic purpose for seeking the leave, the court must then, in accordance with section 191, conduct a preliminary examination of the protected confidence evidence to decide whether leave should be given.

191 Procedure for preliminary examination

- (1) For the preliminary examination, the court may —
 - (a) require anyone who has custody or control of a document recording a protected confidence to produce the document to the court for inspection; or
 - (b) require the counsellor concerned or, if the counsellor provides counselling on behalf of an entity, the principal or another representative of the entity—
 - (i) to give the court written answers to any questions; or
 - (ii) to attend the court for oral examination.
- (2) The court must not order a person to attend for oral examination under subsection (1) (b) (ii) unless the oral examination of the person is necessary for the effective conduct of the preliminary examination.
- (3) Only a person mentioned in subsection (1) may be ordered to answer questions or be examined under this section.
- (4) The preliminary examination must be conducted —
 - (a) in the absence of the public and the jury (if any); and
 - (b) in the absence of the parties to the criminal proceeding and their lawyers, except to the extent otherwise decided by the court.
- (5) Evidence taken at the preliminary examination must not be disclosed to the parties or their lawyers, except to the extent otherwise decided by the court or an appellate court.
- (6) A record of the preliminary examination must be made, but must not be made available for public access.

192 Giving of leave to disclose protected confidence

- (1) After conducting the preliminary examination of the protected confidence evidence, the court may give leave for the disclosure of the protected confidence only if satisfied that, in the circumstances of the case, the public interest in ensuring an accused person in the criminal proceeding is given a fair trial outweighs the public interest in preserving the confidentiality of the protected confidence.
- (2) To remove any doubt, if the court is satisfied under subsection (1) about part of a document only, it may give leave in relation to that part and refuse leave for the rest of the document.
- (3) In making a decision under subsection (1), the court must have regard to—
 - (a) the extent to which disclosure of the protected confidence is necessary for an accused person to make a full defence; and
 - (b) the public interest in ensuring that victims of sexual offences receive effective counselling or other treatment; and
 - (c) the extent to which disclosure of protected confidences may dissuade victims of sexual offences from seeking counselling or other treatment or diminish the value of counselling or other treatment; and

- (d) whether the evidence will have a substantial probative value to a fact in issue and whether other evidence of similar or greater probative value is available about the matters to which the evidence relates; and
 - (e) the likelihood that disclosure of the protected confidence will affect the outcome of the case; and
 - (f) whether disclosure of the protected confidence is sought on the basis of a discriminatory belief or bias; and
 - (g) whether the person to or by whom the protected confidence was made objects to the disclosure of the protected confidence; and
 - (h) the nature and extent of the reasonable expectation of confidentiality for the protected confidence and the potential prejudice to the privacy of anyone, including to the extent to which any interest in confidentiality or privacy has been lessened by the passage of time or the happening of any event since the protected confidence was made.
- (4) Subsection (3) does not limit the matters to which the court may have regard.
- (5) Leave under this section may be given subject to restrictions.
- (6) If the court refuses to give leave, and an appeal is made against the refusal, or a ground of an appeal is the refusal, the appellate court may examine the evidence taken at the preliminary examination under section 190 (Preliminary examination of protected confidence evidence), and may make the orders about the disclosure of the evidence it considers appropriate.

193 Ancillary orders for protection of person who made protected confidence

- (1) The court may make the orders it considers appropriate to limit possible harm, or the extent of possible harm, to a person who made a protected confidence by the disclosure of protected confidence evidence.
- (2) Without limiting subsection (1), the court may—
- (a) order that the court be closed to the public while all or part of the protected confidence evidence is presented; or
 - (b) for a document recording a protected confidence—order that a document be edited as directed by the court or that a copy of a document (or part of a document) be disclosed instead of the original; or
 - (c) make orders in relation to the suppression or publication of all or any part of the protected confidence evidence; or
 - (d) for a document recording a protected confidence—make orders about the production or inspection of the document; or

- (e) make orders in relation to the disclosure of—
 - (i) protected identity information about the person who made the protected confidence; or
 - (ii) information that discloses the identity of the person who made the protected confidence; or
 - (iii) information from which the identity of the person who made the protected confidence might reasonably be inferred.

(3) This section is in addition to section 169 (Prohibition of publication of complainant's identity).

- (4) In this section:

protected identity information means information about, or allowing someone to find out, the private, business or official address, email address or telephone number of a person.

194 No waiver of protected confidence immunity

This Division applies whether or not a person who has made a protected confidence consents or does not object to the disclosure of the protected confidence.

195 No protected confidence immunity for medical information

- (1) This Division does not apply in relation to—
 - (a) information obtained by a doctor because of a physical examination of a person against whom a sexual offence was, or is alleged to have been, committed; or
 - (b) any communication made in the course, or because, of such an examination.

196 No protected confidence immunity for communications for criminal investigations and proceedings

This Division does not apply to a communication made for the purpose of—

- (a) an investigation by a law enforcement entity into the commission or alleged commission of a sexual offence; or
- (b) a preliminary criminal proceeding or criminal proceeding arising from the commission or alleged commission of a sexual offence.

197 No protected confidence immunity in case of misconduct

(1) This Division does not apply in relation to a communication made, or a document prepared, in the furtherance of the commission of an offence, a fraud or an act that makes a person liable to a civil penalty.

(2) A court may find that a communication was made, or a document was prepared, in the furtherance of the commission of an offence, a fraud or an act if there are reasonable grounds for finding that—

- (a) the offence, fraud or act was committed; and
- (b) the communication was made, or document prepared, in the furtherance of the offence, fraud or act.

Division 6 — Sexual offence proceedings—directions and warnings to juries

198 Meaning of complainant and sexual offence proceeding for Division 6

(1) For this Division, the complainant, in relation to a sexual offence proceeding, is the person, or any of the people, against whom a sexual offence the subject of the proceeding is alleged to have been committed.

(2) For this Division, a sexual offence proceeding is a proceeding for a sexual offence before a jury, and includes any of the following before a jury:

- (a) a proceeding for a sexual offence and any other offence;
- (b) a proceeding for a sexual offence and any other offence as an alternative to the sexual offence;
- (c) a proceeding for a sexual offence that may result in a finding of guilt for any other offence.

199 Comments on complainants' evidence

If evidence is given by a complainant in a sexual offence proceeding, the judge must not give the jury any warning or suggestion to the effect that the law regards complainants to be an unreliable class of witnesses.

200 Comments on children's evidence

If evidence is given by a child in a sexual offence proceeding, the judge must not give the jury any warning or suggestion to the effect that the law regards children to be an unreliable class of witnesses.

201 Comments about lack of, or delays in making, complaint

(1) This section applies if, in a sexual offence proceeding, evidence is given, or a question is asked of a witness, that tends to suggest that—

- (a) the complainant made no complaint about the alleged offence; or
- (b) there was a delay in making a complaint.

(2) The judge must—

- (a) give the jury a warning to the effect that the absence of, or the delay in making, the complaint does not necessarily indicate that the allegation that the offence was committed is false; and
- (b) tell the jury that there may be good reasons why a victim of a sexual offence may not make, or may hesitate in making, a complaint about the offence.

Note Section 181S of the Evidence Act 2004 (Evidence of complaint) abolishes the common law rule that complaint evidence in a sexual offence matter is admissible for the purpose of supporting the complainant's credit (by showing the complainant's consistency).

202 Directions about implied consent

In a sexual offence proceeding, the judge must, in a relevant case, direct the jury that a person is not to be regarded as having consented to a sexual act just because—

- (a) the person did not say or do anything to indicate that the person did not consent; or
- (b) the person did not protest or physically resist; or
- (c) the person did not sustain a physical injury; or
- (d) on that or an earlier occasion, the person had consented to engage in a sexual act (whether or not of the same kind) with the accused person or someone else.

203 Directions about mistaken belief about consent

In a sexual offence proceeding, the judge must, in a relevant case, direct the jury that, in deciding whether the accused person was under a mistaken belief that a person consented to a sexual act, the jury may consider whether the belief was reasonable in the circumstances.

*Division 7 — Family objections204 Application—Division 7

- (1) This Division applies in relation to a criminal proceeding.
- (2) This Division does not apply in relation to a proceeding for any of the following offences:
 - (a) an offence against the Criminal Code Part 3.3 (Offences endangering life or health) or Part 3.6 (Sexual offences), if the offence is against a person who is under 16 years old; or
 - (b) an offence if the conduct making up the offence is domestic violence under the Domestic Violence Act 1995.

205 Family objections to giving evidence

(1) A person who, when required to give evidence, is the domestic partner, parent or child of a defendant may make an objection (a family objection) to being required, as a witness for the prosecution—

- (a) to give evidence; or
- (b) to give evidence of a communication between the person and the defendant.

(2) A domestic partner is a reference to someone who lives with the person in a domestic partnership, and includes a reference to a spouse of the person.

206 Time to make family objection

A person may only make a family objection before giving evidence or, if the person has started to give evidence, as soon as practicable after becoming aware of the right to object.

207 Person to be made aware of right to make family objection

If it appears to the court that a person may have a right to make a family objection, the court must satisfy itself that the person is aware of the effect of this Division as it may apply to the person.

208 Family objections to be heard in absence of jury

If there is a jury, the court must hear and decide a family objection in the absence of the jury.

209 Matters court may consider in deciding family objection

(1) A court must not require a person who makes a family objection to give the evidence if the court finds that—

- (a) there is a likelihood that harm would or might be caused (directly or indirectly) to the person, or to the relationship between the person and the defendant, if the person gives the evidence; and
- (b) the nature and extent of that harm outweighs the desirability of having the evidence given.

(2) In making a decision under subsection (1), the court must take into account matters including the following:

- (a) the nature and seriousness of the offence for which the defendant is being prosecuted;
- (b) the substance and importance of any evidence that the person might give and the weight likely to be attached to it;
- (c) whether any other evidence about the matters to which the evidence of the person would relate is reasonably available to the prosecution;
- (d) the nature of the relationship between the defendant and the person;
- (e) whether, in giving the evidence, the person would have to disclose something that was received by the person in confidence from the defendant.

210 Prosecution not to comment about family objections

If the court has made a decision on a family objection by a person, the prosecution must not comment on any of the following:

- (a) the objection;
- (b) the decision on the objection;
- (c) the failure of the person to give evidence.

211 Comments by judge and parties about failure to give evidence by family members

(1) This section applies to a proceeding for an indictable offence in which a defendant's family member fails to give evidence.

(2) The judge or a party (other than the prosecution) may comment on the failure to give evidence.

(3) However, unless the comment is made by another defendant in the proceeding, the comment must not suggest that the family member failed to give evidence because—

- (a) the defendant was guilty of the offence; or
- (b) the family member believed the defendant to be guilty of the offence.

(4) If 2 or more defendants are being tried together for the offence, and any defendant comments on the failure of any other defendant's family member to give evidence, the judge may do either or both of the following:

- (a) comment on the failure to give evidence;
- (b) comment on the defendant's comment.

(5) In this section:

family member, of a defendant, means the defendant's domestic partner, parent or child at the time of the failure to give evidence.

Note For the meaning of domestic partner, see the s 205.

CHAPTER 8 — PUBLICATION OF EVIDENCE

212 Application—chapter 8

This Part applies to a proceeding in the Supreme Court or the Magistrates Court, or to an inquest or inquiry under the Coroners Act 1993.

213 Prohibition of publication of evidence etc

(1) If it appears to a court that—

- (a) the publication of evidence, given or intended to be given, in a proceeding before the court, is likely to prejudice the administration of justice; or
- (b) in the interests of the administration of justice, it is desirable that the name of a party to, or a witness, or intended witness, in a proceeding before the court be not published; the court may, at any time during or after the hearing of the proceeding, make an order—

- (c) forbidding the publication of the evidence or a specified part of the evidence, or of a report of the evidence, either absolutely or subject to any conditions that the court specifies or for any period that is specified; or
- (d) forbidding the publication of the name of the party or witness.

(2) If a court makes an order under subsection (1), the court may, if it considers appropriate, also direct that people specified by the court, or everyone except people so specified, must remain outside the courtroom for the period that the court specifies.

214 Noncompliance with s 213 order

(1) A person who contravenes an order or direction under section 213 commits an offence.

Penalty: 50 penalty units, imprisonment for 6 months or both.

(2) For section 213 and this section, the publication of a reference or allusion to a party to, or a witness in, a proceeding is, if the reference or allusion is such as to disclose the identity of the party or witness, taken to be a publication of the name of the party or witness.
