EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

Telecommunications (Consumer Protection and Service Standards) (Late Payment of NRS Levy) Amendment Determination 2005 (No. 1)

Issued by the authority of the Australian Communications Authority (‘ACA’).

This instrument is the Telecommunications (Consumer Protection and Service Standards) (Late Payment of NRS Levy) Amendment Determination 2005 (No. 1) (the Amendment Determination). It amends the Telecommunications (Consumer Protection and Service Standards) (Late Payment of NRS Levy) Determination 2001 (the Determination).

Under subsection 101A(1) of the Telecommunications (Consumer Protection and Service Standards) Act 1999 (the Act) if a National Rely Service (NRS) levy remains unpaid after the day by which it must be paid, the person is liable to a penalty on the unpaid amount for each day until the entire levy has been paid. Subsection 101A(2) prescribes the penalty rate at 20% per year, or such lower rate as the ACA determines in writing for the purposes of this subsection.

The ACA made the Determination on 14 November 2001 under subsection 101A(2) of the Act.

The purpose of the Amendment Determination is to simplify the late payment penalty calculation by amending the lower percentage specified in the Determination.

Consultation

Application of the amended lower percentage rate simplifies the late payment penalty calculation making it easier for the carrier to understand and results in an immaterial variation to the penalty amount payable (calculated using the previous lower percentage rate).

The Office of Regulation Review advised that a Regulation Impact Statement (RIS) is not required for the change to the instruments (ID number 6402).

The Department of Finance and Administration advised that a Cost Recovery Impact Statement (CRIS) is not required given that fines and pecuniary penalties are excluded from the cost recovery policy.
