Statement of Compatibility with Human Rights

This Determination is compatible with the human rights and freedoms recognised or declared in the international instruments listed in section 3 of the Human Rights (Parliamentary Scrutiny) Act 2011.
This Determination engages the following human rights:

- The right to health is the right to the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of physical and mental health (article 12(1) International Covenant of Economic, Social and Cultural Rights),

- The right to social security requires a social security system be established and that a country must, within its maximum available resources, ensure access to a social security scheme (article 9 International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights),

- The prohibition on interference with privacy and attacks on reputation (article 17 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights),

- Live, take and be included in the community (article 19 Covenant on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities).

The Military Rehabilitation and Compensation Act 2004, (Non-warlike service) Determination 2012 (No.1) establishes that service provided by ADF members on operations contributing to the NATO no-fly-zone and maritime enforcement operation against Libya, in the described area of operation for the specified period, is non-warlike service for the purposes of paragraph 6(1)(b) of the Act. Operations referred to in Schedule 1, Item 16 are operations that provide support to the United Nations Security Councils Resolutions 1970 and 1973 inside the described Area of Operation.

Legitimate objective: Defence members who become ill or injured in the course of duty may require special assistance and support on return from that duty. Whether an injury or illness is seen as arising out of duty may depend on the nature of the service that the member has been required to perform. The actual decision about whether the nature of service will be warlike of non-warlike is made by the Executive, this determination simply ensures than the nature of service that a member provides is reflected in the level and type of benefits that they may be eligible for it they are ill or injured due to their Service.

Reasonable, necessary and proportionate: Determining the nature of service that a member has provided allows the relevant level of additional support to be provided to assist the member with the health care and other needs that they may have as a veteran. Benefits may also be provided to a member’s dependants, who are directly affected by the additional needs that a member may have as a result of their illness of injury.

Although the application for benefits may require some provision of personal information and some limitation on the suppliers of health treatment and benefits that are provided, these restrictions are considered proportional:

- the personal information is treated in accordance with legislated privacy protections, and

- the benefits are additional to those provided to the general public and address a special need arising out of a member’s injury or illness.
This Determination is compatible with human rights because to the extent that it may limit human rights, those limitations are reasonable, necessary and proportionate.

The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet and the Department of Veterans’ Affairs were consulted during the classification process. It is noted that decisions about the nature of service are subject to bipartisan consultation through Government and do not impact business or competition.
