Division 2—Research authorisations

Subdivision A—Introduction

17 Simplified outline of this Division

Telstra can disclose unlisted mobile number information to an authorised research entity (section 15).

An authorised research entity is a person covered by a research authorisation granted by the ACMA under this Division. A research authorisation may cover more than one authorised research entity.

Before the research authorisation is granted, the ACMA must be satisfied, among other things, that each research entity sought to be authorised will use the unlisted mobile number information for certain kinds of research. The research authorisation starts on the first day Telstra provides unlisted mobile number information to an authorised research entity and ends at the end of the period specified in the authorisation (which can be no longer than 12 months).

An authorised research entity must comply with the conditions set out in Subdivision C and any further conditions specified by the ACMA. Failure to comply with these conditions may lead to the authorised research entity being removed from the authorisation by the ACMA and will be considered by the ACMA if the entity is specified in an application for another research authorisation. A contravention of a condition is an offence (see section 46).

After a research authorisation comes to an end, or if a research entity is removed from an authorisation, an authorised research entity must comply with the requirements of sections 40 and 41 in relation to the unlisted mobile number information and research information the entity has received. Failure to comply with those sections will be considered by the ACMA if the entity is specified in an application for another research authorisation. A contravention of section 40 or 41 is an offence (see section 46).

Subdivision B—Application for, and grant of, research authorisations

18 Applying for research authorisations

- (1) A person may apply to the ACMA for a research authorisation to cover that person and any other persons specified in the application.
- (2) The applicant for the authorisation, and each other person to be covered by the authorisation, is a research entity.
- (3) The application must:
 - (a) be in writing; and

Section 19

- (b) specify:
 - (i) each research entity to be covered by the authorisation; and
 - (ii) the kind or kinds of unlisted mobile number information being sought; and
 - (iii) the kind or kinds of research for which the unlisted mobile number information is sought and the reasons why that information is sought; and
- (c) be accompanied by:
 - (i) the charge (if any) for the application fixed by a determination under section 60 of the Australian Communications and Media Authority Act 2005; and
 - (ii) a completed privacy impact assessment.

19 ACMA may request further information

- (1) The ACMA may, in writing, request a research entity specified in an application for a research authorisation to give the ACMA further information within 90 days after the request is made.
- (2) The request must state the effect of subsection (3).
- (3) If the entity does not provide the information within 90 days, the ACMA may treat the application as if it did not specify the entity.

20 ACMA may consult

Before granting a research authorisation, the ACMA may consult any person or body the ACMA considers appropriate.

21 Research authorisations

Grant of research authorisation

- (1) On an application for a research authorisation in accordance with section 18, the ACMA must grant the authorisation if the ACMA is reasonably satisfied that:
 - (a) the kind or kinds of research proposed to be covered by the authorisation is permitted research; and
 - (b) each research entity will comply with the conditions of the authorisation (including any additional conditions specified by the ACMA under subsection 22(4)); and
 - (c) sections 40 and 41 will be complied with by each research entity if the authorisation ends or the entity is removed from the authorisation.

Note: If the ACMA decides not to grant the authorisation, a research entity, or any other person affected by the decision, may request the ACMA to reconsider its decision (see section 42).

Matters to consider in granting research authorisation

- (2) In determining whether a research entity will comply with the conditions of the authorisation, the ACMA must have regard to the following:
 - (a) the practices, procedures, processes and systems the entity has in place, or intends to put in place, to comply with the conditions of the authorisation;
 - (b) if the entity has previously been covered by a research authorisation—the extent to which the entity has complied with, or is complying with, the conditions of that authorisation;
 - (c) if the entity has been granted an IPND Scheme authorisation—the extent to which the entity has complied with, or is complying with, the conditions of that authorisation;
 - (d) the extent to which the entity’s collection, use and disclosure of personal information has complied with, or is consistent with, the Privacy Act 1988 (whether or not that Act applies to the entity).
- (3) In determining whether paragraph (1)(c) is satisfied, if the research entity has previously been covered by a research authorisation, the ACMA must have regard to the extent to which the entity complied with section 40 or 41 after that authorisation ended or the entity was removed from that authorisation.
- (4) Subsections (2) and (3) do not limit the matters that the ACMA may have regard to.

Deemed refusal to grant research authorisation

- (5) For the purposes of Subdivision F (review of decisions), if the ACMA does not make a decision on the application under subsection (1) within the period covered by subsection (6), the ACMA is taken to have decided not to grant the authorisation.
- (6) The period covered by this subsection is the period that ends at the later of:
 - (a) 90 days after receiving the application; or
 - (b) if the ACMA has, within those 90 days, given any research entity a written request for further information under subsection 19(1)—90 days after the end of the period for compliance with the last request made under that subsection.

22 Content of research authorisations

- (1) A research authorisation must be granted in writing.
- (2) The authorisation must specify the following:
 - (a) each research entity (an authorised research entity) covered by the authorisation;
 - (b) the kind or kinds of permitted research to which the authorisation applies;
 - (c) the kind or kinds of unlisted mobile number information that may be disclosed to an authorised research entity.
- (3) The authorisation must specify a period that the authorisation is in effect which:

Section 23

(a) starts on the day Telstra first discloses authorised unlisted mobile number information to an authorised research entity covered by the authorisation; and

(b) ends no later than 12 months afterwards.

(4) The authorisation may specify conditions additional to those specified in Subdivision C to which the authorisation is subject.

Note 1: If the ACMA specifies an additional condition under this subsection, an authorised research entity, and any other person affected by the decision, may request the ACMA to reconsider its decision (see section 42).

Note 2: Before granting a research authorisation, the ACMA may consult any person or body about any additional conditions to be specified under subsection (4) (see section 20).

23 Notice relating to research authorisations

(1) If the ACMA grants a research authorisation, the ACMA must, as soon as is reasonably practicable, give each authorised research entity, and Telstra, a copy of the authorisation.

(2) If:

(a) the ACMA grants a research authorisation; and

(b) the authorisation specifies an additional condition to which the authorisation is subject;

the ACMA must, as soon as is reasonably practicable, give written notice to each authorised research entity stating that the entity, and any other person affected by the decision, may request the ACMA to reconsider the decision under section 42.

(3) As soon as reasonably practicable after the ACMA decides not to grant a research authorisation, the ACMA must give written notice to each research entity specified in the application for the authorisation stating:

(a) that the authorisation has not been granted; and

(b) the reasons for not granting the authorisation; and

(c) that the entity, and any other person affected by the decision, may request the ACMA to reconsider the decision under section 42.

Note: A research entity may be treated as not being specified in an application if the entity does not provide the ACMA with further information within 90 days after the ACMA requests that information: see section 19.

A research authorisation has effect during the period specified in the authorisation, subject otherwise to this instrument.

Subdivision C—Authorisation conditions
