

Financial Sector (Collection of Data) (reporting standard) determination No. 9 of 2025

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

Prepared by the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority (APRA)

Financial Sector (Collection of Data) Act 2001, sections 13 and 15

Under subsection 13(1) of the Financial Sector (Collection of Data) Act 2001 (the Act), APRA has the power to determine reporting standards, in writing, with which financial sector entities must comply. Such standards relate to reporting financial or accounting data and other information regarding the business or activities of the entities.

Subsection 15(1) of the Act provides that APRA may declare a day on and after which the reporting standards are to apply.

On 30 April 2025, APRA made Financial Sector (Collection of Data) (reporting standard) determination No. 9 of 2025 which determines a new Reporting Standard SRS 604.0 RSE Licensee Profile (SRS 604.0).

The instrument commences at the start of the day after the day the instrument is registered on the Federal Register of Legislation.

1. Background

APRA is empowered to make reporting standards under the Act, which require regulated institutions, including RSE licensees, to submit specified data through various reporting forms. Data from these forms are used internally to assist APRA's supervisory functions and by other agencies such as the Australian Bureau of Statistics and the Australian Securities and Investments Commission. APRA also collates and publishes statistical information and analysis using data from these reporting forms.

SRS 604.0 sets out requirements for the provision of information to APRA relating to the management and ownership of a registrable superannuation entity (RSE) licensee. It states the specific data items each RSE licensee needs to submit, provides definitions and instructions on how to measure and report these items, and states timelines and quality requirements for providing the data to APRA.

The reporting standard will replace Reporting Standard SRS 600.0 Profile and Structure (RSE Licensee), addresses key data gaps in the previous reporting framework.

2. Purpose and operation of the Legislative Instrument

The purpose of the instrument is to determine the new SRS 604.0, which requires RSE licensees to provide information to APRA about their management and ownership. This data is needed to strengthen supervision of the superannuation industry and to promote transparency and comparability within the superannuation industry.

The new SRS 604.0 requires reporting for reporting periods that commenced prior to the commencement of the new SRS 604.0. The new SRS 604.0 is not retrospective in operation as the obligation to report on these reporting periods commences from, and not prior to, the commencement of the new SRS 604.0.

Paragraph 20 outlines that where this Reporting Standard provides for APRA to exercise a power or discretion, the power or discretion is to be exercised in writing.

Documents incorporated by reference

Under paragraph 14(1)(a) of the Legislation Act 2003 (Legislation Act), the standard incorporates by reference Acts of Parliament and associated delegated legislation as in force from time to time. These documents may be freely obtained at www.legislation.gov.au.

Under paragraph 14(1)(b) of the Legislation Act, the standard incorporates the following documents from the time that the instrument commences:

- Prudential Standards determined by APRA under subsection 34C(1) of the Superannuation Industry (Supervision Act) 1993 that relate to superannuation; and
- Reporting Standards determined by APRA under subsection 13(1) of the Act that relate to superannuation.

These documents may be freely obtained at www.legislation.gov.au.

Exercise of discretion by APRA

There are a number of powers that may be exercised by APRA in reporting standards that involve an element of discretion and which may impact the interests of the entities to which the reporting standards apply. These decisions include APRA changing a reporting period or due date for an entity to provide required information, or making minor variations to a reporting standard to correct certain errors, to correct inconsistencies or anomalies, or to provide clarification regarding the application of the reporting instructions.

The need to apply discretion is driven by entity specific issues and circumstances which are not adequately addressed by the generally applicable provisions of the reporting standards.

APRA will exercise the power to vary the reporting requirements in relation to a relevant entity if it is satisfied that this will achieve a better reporting or prudential outcome than if it remained in its original form. A change to a reporting period or due date might be determined on APRA's initiative taking into account APRA's assessment of whether existing data will be sufficient for APRA's prudential supervision purposes, or whether APRA will have the required data by a particular date. Alternatively, a change to a reporting period or due date might be considered by APRA at the request of an entity, where the entity is able to demonstrate that it would not be appropriate or feasible to provide data for a particular reporting period or by a particular date.

APRA considers a wide range of factors when exercising its discretion under reporting standards, including limiting regulatory burden, or correcting errors or inconsistencies in the reporting standards.

The exercise of APRA's powers is governed by a robust decision-making framework which is documented in APRA's internal policies. This framework supports APRA in fulfilling its mandate by limiting decision-making to APRA officers with the appropriate experience and skill to exercise prudent judgement.

Review of decisions

APRA considers that decisions made by APRA in exercising discretions under its reporting standards should not be subject to merits review as they are financial decisions with a significant public interest element.

APRA's reporting standards collect financial data from regulated entities. This data contains critical indicators of a regulated entity's financial wellbeing. APRA relies heavily on this financial data to inform its supervisory actions towards its regulated entities. Without timely and complete data, APRA may miss indicators that an entity is taking on imprudent risk or is in distress. APRA's supervisory decisions may be jeopardised if its receipt of data is unreliable due to entities seeking merits review under its reporting standards.

3. Consultation

APRA conducted consultation for this instrument.

In November 2023, APRA released publicly, the consultation package on proposed changes to superannuation reporting, which included the proposed collection of data on the management and ownership of RSE licensees.

Nine submissions were received from RSE licensees and industry bodies in response to the consultation package.

In December 2024, APRA released a response to consultation, incorporating the feedback received from industry into the final version of the reporting standard.

APRA is satisfied the consultation was appropriate and reasonably practicable.

4. Regulation Impact Statement

The Office of Impact Analysis advised that a Regulatory Impact Statement was not required for the consultation relating to the proposed collection of data on the management and ownership of RSE licensees.

5. Statement of compatibility prepared in accordance with Part 3 of the Human Rights (Parliamentary Scrutiny) Act 2011

A Statement of compatibility prepared in accordance with Part 3 of the Human Rights (Parliamentary Scrutiny) Act 2011 is provided at Attachment A to this Explanatory Statement.

6. Legislative instrument – disallowance and sunseting

The instrument is a legislative instrument for the purposes of the Legislation Act. In accordance with section 44 of the Legislation Act and item 3 in paragraphs 9 and item 6 in paragraph 11 of the Legislation (Exemptions and Other Matters) Regulation 2015 (Legislation Regulation), the instrument is not subject to disallowance or sunseting under the Legislation Act on the grounds that the instrument relates to superannuation. The Explanatory Statement to the Legislation Regulation states:

“Item 3 is an instrument (other than regulations) relating to superannuation. This item preserves the exemption in item 39 of the table in subsection 44(2) of the Legislative Instruments Act. This exemption exists because exposure of superannuation instruments to disallowance would cause commercial uncertainty, as well as uncertainty for superannuation fund members and providers. These instruments are intended to have enduring operation and are not suitable for the disallowance process.”

“Item 6 is an instrument (other than a regulation) relating to superannuation. This item preserves the exemption in item 42 of the table in subsection 54(2) of the Legislative Instruments Act. Sunseting of instruments relating to superannuation could cause commercial uncertainty, as well as uncertainty for superannuation fund members and providers. These instruments are intended to have enduring operation and it would not be appropriate to subject them to sunseting.”

As detailed above, appropriate consultation with industry stakeholders occurred prior to the finalisation of the instrument. APRA conducts regular reviews on its reporting standards, which range from post-implementation reviews to targeted reviews of specific standards or aspects of standards.
