OLD strives to maintain and enhance its reputation as a centre of drafting excellence. We produce legislative and administrative instruments of the highest standard through the innovative use of plain English, current technology and rigorous quality assurance procedures.
OLD has a working relationship with the Commonwealth’s drafter of primary legislation, the Office of Parliamentary Counsel. OLD is a member of the Parliamentary Counsel’s Committee of Australia and participates in relevant international forums.

OLD’s responsibilities
- drafting
- advising about drafting; preparing and formally notifying instruments; interpreting instruments created under a statutory power
- publishing the Government Notices Gazette
- providing ready public access to the law through SCALEplus (scaleplus.law.gov.au) and the Legislative Instruments Database (frli.law.gov.au)
- ensuring that Commonwealth legislation and explanatory material is available in easily accessible form, as it is made, and in consolidated form, as it is amended

Value-added services
We arrange the gazettal and tabling in Parliament of instruments in the Statutory Rules series, and can arrange gazettal and tabling of other instruments.
We consolidate into a principal legislative instrument any amendments made to an instrument, making copies available in hard and electronic format. On request, we can do the same for other instruments.
We publish legislative instruments drafted by OLD (including amendments and consolidations) on the Internet on SCALEplus and on the Legislative Instruments Database. On request, we can arrange the publication of other instruments in those media, assisting you to meet the Government’s policy of providing ready public access to the law.

Other assistance
We can provide advice on:
- the basis and role of delegated legislation and other instruments made under a statutory power

MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT AND HERITAGE

NOTICE UNDER SECTION 17A OF THE FUEL QUALITY STANDARDS ACT 2000 CONCERNING A DECISION UNDER SECTION 13 OF THAT ACT TO GRANT AN APPROVAL FOR A VARIATION OF THE FUEL STANDARD (PETROL) DETERMINATION 2001

I, David Alistair Kemp, Minister for the Environment and Heritage, provide the following information concerning my decision to grant an approval under section 13 of the Fuel Quality Standards Act 2000 (the Act).

Name of approval holder
The approval has been granted to the person performing the duties of the position of Assistant Secretary, Health and Community Strategies Branch, Office for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health of the Commonwealth Department of Health and Ageing (the approval holder), on behalf of the Commonwealth.

Period of operation
The period of operation of the approval is from the date of the approval until 31 December 2005.

Details of the Approval
This approval varies the standard of petrol under the Fuel Standard (Petrol) Determination 2001 in respect of petrol with a lead content of more than 0.005gm/L of lead where the petrol is supplied by the approval holder, or by another person specified in Annexure 1 of the approval, for use under the ‘Comgas Scheme’.

A copy of the approval is attached to this Notice.

Background
I have previously granted DHA two approvals to distribute the leaded fuel Avgas in communities participating in the Scheme. The first approval operated from 16 January 2002 to 16 January 2003, the second from 16 January 2003 to 16 January 2004. The supply of leaded fuel is generally not permitted as the Petrol Determination limits lead content to 0.005g/L.

Avgas is supplied to 34 Aboriginal communities under the Scheme administered under the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Substance Use Program in DHA. The Scheme is a long-term approach to reducing petrol sniffing, and addresses education, prevention, rehabilitation and treatment. The Scheme ensures that communities using aviation fuel as part of an abatement strategy can continue to do so at no additional cost.

When the first approval was granted, the Fuel Standards Consultative Committee (the Committee) had some concerns regarding the potential impacts of permitting the use of Avgas under the Scheme. DHA undertook to evaluate the effectiveness of the Scheme and to assess suitable alternatives to Avgas. This did not occur within the approval’s 12 month timeframe, and DHA then requested a 12 month extension. The Comgas Scheme Evaluation Working Group was established and a representative of DEH was invited to join. A consortium headed by the Aboriginal Drug & Alcohol Council (SA) (ADAC) has recently completed 'An Evaluation of the Comgas Scheme', which is expected to be finalised and circulated to the Committee in early 2004.

In addition to this evaluation, the Department of the Environment and Heritage (DEH) engaged SWB Consulting to prepare 'A technical evaluation in relation to the use of Avgas as a vehicle fuel'. This evaluation examined whether there were any operability and engine management system effects on vehicle engines that are not designed to use leaded petrol (i.e., vehicles made after 1986), and the availability of fuels that could possibly substitute Avgas under the Comgas Scheme.

Section 15 of the Act provides that I must have regard to the following when deciding whether or not to grant, or amend, an approval:

(a) the protection of the environment;
(b) the protection of occupational and public health and safety;
(c) the interests of consumers; and
(d) the impact on economic and regional development.

I may also have regard to any other matters I consider relevant. Section 24A of the Act provides that I must consult, and have regard to the recommendations of the Committee before granting an approval under section 13. Before signing the instrument granting the approval I had regard to the recommendation of the Committee dated 8 December 2003.

Findings on material questions of fact
(a) Protection of the environment

The high lead content of Avgas relative to other fuels may contribute to higher ambient levels of lead in the environment. Lead is emitted from vehicles' exhaust systems, and it may enter the environment as a result of evaporation from fuel tanks, the carburettor or spillage during transport and refuelling.

Additionally, lead can damage the oxygen sensor and the exhaust catalytic converter in post 1986 vehicles. Anecdotal evidence indicates that one tankful of Avgas will lead to some loss of catalytic activity, although recovery should be about 95% of design efficiency if unleaded petrol is used consistently thereafter.

If the catalyst is rendered either partially or completely inoperative through lead poisoning, carbon monoxide, oxides of nitrogen and hydrocarbon emissions will increase. Malfunction of the oxygen sensor will lead to loss of control of the air/fuel ratio, leading to a decrease in vehicle performance, higher emissions and an increase in fuel consumption.

However, in the remote coastal and desert regions where communities are participating in the Scheme, this is unlikely to create a major environmental problem because of the low population density of those areas.

Nonetheless, the feasibility of substituting Avgas with an unleaded fuel that is low in aromatic hydrocarbons (and therefore not attractive to petrol sniffers) will be discussed with local refiners and importers in 2004.

(b) Protection of occupational and public health and safety

Avgas is supplied to Indigenous communities participating in the Scheme as a strategy intended to reduce the incidence of petrol sniffing in those communities.
Avgas has less toluene and other aromatic hydrocarbons than commonly used unleaded petrols, and therefore does not produce the physiological effects sought by petrol sniffers. Petrol sniffing is a public health and safety issue because of the adverse effects of inhaling hydrocarbons (such as benzene and toluene) in petrol. The effects vary according to the amounts inhaled, but can include cardiac arrest and respiratory paralysis leading to death, eye irritation, burns to skin, eyes and throat, convulsions, loss of consciousness, nausea, vomiting, hallucinations, delusions, leukaemia, cataracts, and dermatitis.

The use of fuel additives to make unleaded petrol unattractive to inhale has, in the past, proved unsuccessful. ‘Petrol Sniffing in Aboriginal Communities: A Review of Interventions’ by P d’Abbs and S MacLean, 2000, reports that the addition of ethyl mercaptan (‘skunk juice’, which, when added to petrol and inhaled induces nausea, vomiting and diarrhoea), was not successful (page 55). Replacing unleaded petrol withAvgas has been found to dramatically reduce the incidence of petrol sniffing, particularly when combined with other intervention strategies. By reducing the incidence of petrol sniffing, the Scheme has a direct impact on exposure to toxic substances in petrol. The draft ADAC Evaluation has confirmed that the Scheme is an effective and popular intervention.

Nonetheless, attempts to sniff Avgas do occur. The effects of sniffing Avgas vary according to the amounts inhaled, but can include headaches and muscle cramps. There is also concern regarding the risk of lead inhalation, which can impact adversely on human health. The draft ADAC report indicates that Avgas is not being snuffed on a regular basis in communities participating in the Scheme, and this is reflected in the reduction in lead-related mortality and morbidity since 1994. This is also supported in the study ‘Evaluation of strategies used by a remote Aboriginal community to eliminate petrol sniffing’, by CB Burns, BJ Currie, AB Clough and R Wuridjai, (‘The Medical Journal of Australia’, Vol 163, 17 July 1995). The initial study took place in October 1992 when petrol sniffing was a major social problem, and the follow-up study occurred 20 months after the introduction of Avgas. Blood lead levels fell significantly in those with a history of petrol sniffing, indicating they had not continued to sniff Avgas.

(c) Interests of consumers

Car engines built since 1986 are designed to run on unleaded fuel and their catalytic converters are designed to reduce the toxicity of exhaust emissions. Vehicles with oxygen sensors are only now entering the Australian fleet.

It can be concluded from the SWB Technical Evaluation that the use of Avgas in vehicles designed for unleaded fuel will not result in cars that cannot be driven. This does not support limited anecdotal evidence that using Avgas in such a vehicle will lead to significant operability problems.

However, the use of Avgas will have a major effect on the engine management system and catalytic converter, resulting in less than optimum performance, increased fuel consumption and exhaust emissions. In particular, emissions of hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and oxides of nitrogen would increase if the exhaust catalytic converter were rendered inoperable through lead poisoning.

Efforts can be made, however, to minimise these impacts, for example through prominent signage in areas where leaded Avgas is sold, informing visitors of the risks of refuelling locally. DHS expect the ADAC report to include recommendations in relation to the dissemination of information pertaining to the limited supply of unleaded petrol in communities participating in the Comgas Scheme.

In relation to small engines, the SWB Technical Evaluation found there is considerable anecdotal evidence that accelerated exhaust system corrosion occurs in some engines not designed for use with leaded fuels, and this is particularly prevalent with outboard engines used by Indigenous communities in certain coastal areas of northern Australia. Quantitative research or data were unable to be located to support this claim.

(d) Impact on economic and regional development
In communities where petrol sniffing is being contained, there are likely to be higher levels of employment, reduced health costs, less social dysfunction and a lower incidence of criminal activity. These benefits clearly outweigh any costs associated with loss of fuel sales to visitors, or the impacts on vehicles.

Evidence or other material on which the findings were based
I have taken into account the Committee recommendation dated 8 December 2003. The Committee recommended to grant the approval, which would have no significant effect on the environment or any other relevant matter.

Reasons for decision
1. DHA has advised that from a health perspective, extending the current approval for a further two years provides an opportunity to implement a broader approach to reduce petrol sniffing, through education, prevention, rehabilitation and treatment.

2. There is widespread support from communities currently involved under the Scheme that it is an effective and popular intervention.

3. Any negative impacts that the availability and use of Avgas has on the operability of vehicles and/or costs associated with loss of fuel sales to visitors are outweighed by the benefits experienced by communities participating in the Scheme.

4. Possible substitute fuels for Avgas and the feasibility of using them under the Scheme will be considered by DHA and DEH during the period of the approval’s extension.

5. The Committee considers that the supply of Avgas under the Comgas Scheme should continue because until a more suitable fuel can be substituted for Avgas, the Comgas Scheme is an effective and popular petrol sniffing prevention intervention.

6. Progress relating to the implementation of the recommendations of the ADAC report will be reported to the Committee at its bi-annual meetings.
