 - (ix) integration of the educational process vis-à-vis the humanities, engineering and science;
 - (x) preparation of instructional materials, laboratory guides, and text books.
- (b) The work carried out by the Curriculum Development Centre of the TTTI Bhopal shows that a systems approach can be applied to the polytechnic education system. It also shows that some aspects of the system have not yet been tackled due to lack of experience, know-how or resources, and that further efforts are necessary to revise and reform the work already done.

In order to consolidate this work the project developed regionally and a national committee set up to co-ordinate the work.

In addition, three technical sub-committees have been set up in the main areas of work:

- (1) Multi-Media Education Technology.
- (2) Testing and Evaluation.
- (3) Film Production.

UNDP will provide consultants and three international experts one of whom may be chosen as Project Co-ordinator. Fellowships and Equipment components will also be provided.

B. National character of the project

Operational projects, benefiting from UNESCO assistance, are national projects and it is up to the beneficiary country to assume responsibility for directing the project as well as ensuring its proper implementation.

The national authority will also be responsible for the utilisation of equipment including supplies and vehicles, as far as the activities defined in the project document are concerned.

Consequently, the international specialists will carry out their mission under the guidance of the national authority.

(Under the supervision of the Chief Technical Adviser), the specialists, as staff members of UNESCO, are placed under the authority of the Director-General of the Organisation and will answer to him for the manner in which they carry out their functions.

ANNEX

A. Background:

In Malawi, as in most developing countries, the shortage of adequately trained and skilled local manpower is a serious constraint to development. The World Bank Group staff which visited Malawi in negotiations related to the Third IDA Education Project conducted interviews with officials of Ministries and of major public and private enterprises. These interviews complemented and supplemented the manpower analysis of the 'Education Sector Survey' published in May 1978, which the World Bank staff carried out in collaboration with the Government. The Survey identified 22 major priority areas for investment covering the entire education system. A Fourth IDA Education Project has been agreed. Bilateral and multilateral agencies are assisting in several of these areas. Apart from the present project, UNDP/UNESCO are already co-operating in a project on Primary Teacher Education and Curriculum Development and a pilot project in Functional Literacy.

The Third IDA Education Project is designed to continue support to key areas of the sector, identified as priorities by the Government and the World Bank Group. Among other contributions, Government agreed to seek the services of an international specialist who would be responsible for preparing and implementing a series of studies on key educational issues, working with responsible institutions and agencies in the country. The present UNDP/UNESCO project is the outcome.

B. National character of the project:

Operational projects, benefiting from UNESCO assistance, are national projects and it is up to the beneficiary country to assume responsibility for directing the project as well as ensuring its proper implementation.

The national authority will also be responsible for the utilisation of equipment including supplies and vehicles, as far as the activities defined in the project document are concerned.
