NOTICE OF RECEIPT OF A PROPOSAL TO RELEASE A GENETICALLY MODIFIED ORGANISM

The Committee has received an application to release a genetically modified organism into the environment.

The Committee invites written submissions on matters relevant to the environmental and safety issues of this proposal. Submissions should be received by GMAC within 30 days from the date of this Gazette.

All correspondence, including submissions and enquiries, should be addressed to:

PR-42 - Field Evaluation of Low Browning Potatoes

Name of Organisation Proposing Release: CSIRO Division of Horticulture

Address of Organisation: Hartley Grove URRBRAE SA 5064

Name of Organism: Potato (Solanum tuberosum)

Purpose of the Release: To field trial transgenic potato plants to observe if there are any unexpected or unpredicted genotypic or phenotypic effects in the performance of the plants. Glasshouse trials have shown no difference apart from the planned genetic modification. The field trials will be of a larger number of plants to test the reliability of the glasshouse observations.

Brief Description of the Nature and Effect of the Genetic Modification: The browning of many fruit and vegetables that occurs when they are cut and exposed to air is caused by the enzyme polyphenoloxidase, which is found in most plant tissues. Damage to plant cells allows polyphenoloxidase to react with other plant products causing the browning. This is often a problem in food processing.

The browning reaction is usually controlled by chemical, heat or other methods, increasing production costs.

CSIRO has isolated the gene for polyphenoloxidase and constructed a complementary (mirror-image) gene to insert back into the plant. This complementary gene switches off polyphenoloxidase activity in potato tubers so that browning does not occur.

Location and Size of Trial: Lenswood, South Australia and Gatton, Queensland. 1000 plants at each site.

PR-43 - Use of transgenic plants to monitor the frequency of Bt resistance in field populations of Helicoverpa armigera

Name of Organisation Proposing Release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry Cotton Research Unit

Address of Organisation: PO Box 59, Narrabri NSW 2390

Name of Organism: Cultivated tobacco (Nicotiana tabacum)

Purpose of the Release: To examine the possibility of using transgenic tobacco as a monitoring system for the presence of Bt resistant cotton bollworm moths (Helicoverpa armigera) in Australian cotton growing areas once transgenic cotton containing the same gene is released commercially, and to provide estimates of the frequency with which resistant insects may already occur prior to the large scale release of Bt cotton. This information will be critical for the correct management of transgenic cotton when it is released commercially.

Brief Description of the Nature and Effect of the Genetic Modification: The transgenic plants express an insecticidal protein called Cry IA(c) from the bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis. This highly specific insecticidal protein is toxic to certain caterpillars, including the major pest species that attack cotton, but is non-toxic to humans, animals and most other insects. The tobacco plants expressing the insecticidal protein are more tolerant to caterpillar pests in the same way as the transgenic cotton, but are a more desirable host for the caterpillars than cotton and allow easier monitoring of resistant insects if and when they might arise.

Location and Size of Trial: Myall Vale, NSW. Approximately 700 transgenic plants in an area 15m².

Further Information: Can be obtained from the institution's contact officer,

PR-44 - Winter seed increase of transgenic cotton expressing the CryIA(c) delta-endotoxin from Bacillus thuringiensis

Name of Organisation Proposing Release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry

Address of Organisation: PO Box 1600 Canberra ACT 2601

Name of Organism: Cultivated cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the Release: To increase seed stocks of transgenic plants that have tolerance to the main caterpillar pests of cotton. This material will be of the most advanced lines currently being evaluated in other planned release trials. The bulked material will form the basis of seed stocks for further larger scale agronomic assessments at different sites in the NSW and Queensland cotton growing areas in the following spring as part of an ongoing programme to produce commercially useful cotton cultivars with increased tolerance to insect pests.

Brief Description of the Nature and Effect of the Genetic Modification: The transgenic plants express an insecticidal protein (called CryIA(c)) from the bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis. This highly specific insecticidal protein is toxic to certain caterpillars, including the major pest species that attack cotton, but is non-toxic to humans, animals and most other insects. Plants expressing the insecticidal protein are more tolerant to caterpillar pests and therefore require less chemical pesticides during their cropping.

Location and Size of Trial: Lakeland, north Queensland, and Kununurra, Western Australia. One million transgenic plants in 20 hectares at each site.

Further Information: Can be obtained from the institution's contact officers, Dr Danny Llewellyn ☎ 06 246 5470 or Dr Gary Fitt ☎ 067 991 514

NOTICE PURSUANT TO SECTION 14

Fibre Claims in Bread (A224)

The National Food Authority received an application (A224) on 25 July 1994 from Goodman Fielder Ltd to amend the Food Standards Code. The applicant seeks to vary Standard B1 - Cereals, Legumes, Flours, Meals and Breads, by deletion of references to crude fibre in clause 19. This clause relates specifically to fibre-increased breads or those breads represented to have increased or high fibre content. The proposed variation would have the effect of deregulating fibre claims for bread, leaving such claims subject only to voluntary self-regulation under the proposed Code of Practice on Nutrient Claims.

The Authority has made a preliminary assessment, accepted the application and will make a full assessment. To assist this process, the Authority invites submissions on matters relevant to the application. Written submissions should be received by the Authority no later than 28 October 1994.

FOOD IRRADIATION (P89B)

The National Food Authority advises that the World Health Organisation (WHO) has published a booklet titled Review of the Safety and Nutritional Adequacy of Irradiated Food, commissioned by the Commonwealth Government following the Report on the Use of Ionising Radiation by the House of Representatives Standing Committee on Environment, Recreation and the Arts. The booklet is now publicly available from major bookshops (ISBN No. 92 4 156162 9).

To promote further consideration of Proposal P89B, the Authority has prepared a discussion paper to assist persons wishing to provide comment to the Authority on the WHO booklet by focussing attention on those matters which are relevant to food standards. The discussion paper is available from the Authority and written comments should be received by the Authority no later than 28 December 1994.

The application was lodged by ITC (Australia), acting for Nufarm Limited, on behalf of the Australian industry producing like goods.

In accordance with Customs Regulation 183AB a preliminary finding will be made within 100 days after the publication of this notice as to whether there are sufficient grounds for the publication of a dumping and/or countervailing duty notice in respect of the goods the subject of the application.

A preliminary finding that there are sufficient grounds for the publication of a dumping and/or countervailing duty notice may result in the imposition of provisional measures, including the taking of securities under section 42 of the Customs Act 1901, for the period specified in subsection 45(2) of the Customs Act 1901. Any securities taken apply in respect of interim dumping and/or countervailing duty that may become payable on the importation of the goods.

Copies are available from the Publications Section, Customs House, Canberra or Customs Houses in each capital city.
