BROADCASTING SERVICES ACT 1992
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR RENEWAL OF LICENCE

In accordance with sections 46(2)(commercial licences) and 90(2)(community licences) of the Broadcasting Services Act 1992 (the Act), the Australian Broadcasting Authority (ABA) hereby notifies that the companies listed below have lodged applications for the renewal of the following broadcasting service licences:

The ABA is required to renew these licences unless it decides that an applicant is no longer a suitable licensee. A company is a suitable licensee if the ABA does not decide that sub-section 41(2) (for commercial) or 83(2) (for community) of the Act applies to the company.

The ABA may decide that either section 41(2) or 83(2) of the Act applies to a licensee if it is satisfied that allowing the licensee to provide or continue to provide either a commercial or a community broadcasting service under a licence would lead to a significant risk of:

- (a) an offence against the Act or the regulations being committed; or
- (b) a breach of the conditions of the licence occurring.

In deciding whether these sub-sections apply, the ABA is required by sections 41(3) (commercial) and 83(3) (community) of the Act, to take into account:

- (a) the business record of the company; and
- (b) the company's record in situations requiring trust and candour; and
- (c) (commercial) the business record of each person who is, or would be, if a licence were allocated to the applicant, in a position to control the licence; or (community) the business record of the chief executive and each director and secretary of the applicant; and
- (d) the record in situations requiring trust and candour of each such person; and
- (e) whether the company, or a person referred to in paragraph (c) or (d), has been convicted of an offence against this Act or the regulations.

The Act does not require the ABA to hold an investigation or a hearing into whether a licence should be renewed.

ANTI-DUMPING AUTHORITY

Expiry of undertakings and anti-dumping duties on A4 copy paper from Brazil, Finland, Germany, Indonesia, South Africa and the United States of America

The Anti-Dumping Authority, in accordance with Section 8A of the Anti-Dumping Authority Act 1988, hereby notifies that undertakings and anti-dumping duties on imports of A4 copy paper from Brazil, Finland, the Federal Republic of Germany, the Republic of Indonesia, the Republic of South Africa and the United States of America as described in the Authority's Report no. 119 are due to expire on 3 and 16 February 1999.

Interested parties are invited to apply to the Authority for the continuation of the anti-dumping measures within 60 days from the date of this notice. Such applications must be in writing and in an approved form. Copies of the approved form are available from Ms Margaret McLeod at the Anti-Dumping Authority, GPO Box 9839, Canberra, ACT 2601; ph (02) 6213 6754; fax (02) 6213 6761; email MMCLEOD@dist.gov.au.

If an application is not received by the Authority within the period specified above, the undertakings and anti-dumping duties will expire on 3 and 16 February 1999.

If an application is received and complies with the necessary requirements, the Authority must undertake an inquiry and report to the Minister within 120 days after the receipt of the application on whether the anti-dumping measures should continue for a further five years.

For an inquiry to be undertaken, an application needs to provide reasons for believing that the expiration of the anti-dumping measures would see the recurrence of dumping of imports of A4 copy paper from the countries nominated; and for believing that any such dumping would cause or threaten to cause material injury to the Australian industry. The reasons should be supported by evidence and not be based on mere allegations or assertions.

For further information on this matter please contact Mr Myron Bosak at the Authority on telephone (02) 6213 6764; fax (02) 6213 6761; or email MBOSAK@dist.gov.au.

The Genetic Manipulation Advisory Committee (GMAC) has received applications for the planned release of genetically modified organisms. The Committee invites written submissions on matters relevant to the environmental and safety issues of these proposals. Submissions should be received by GMAC within 30 days of the date of this Gazette.

All correspondence, including submissions and inquiries, should be addressed to:

The Secretary
Genetic Manipulation Advisory Committee
GPO Box 2183
CANBERRA ACT 2601

Tel: 02 6213 6490
Fax: 02 6213 6462

PR-98: Queensland cotton: Flinders River cotton project 1998-99

Organisation proposing release: Deltapine Australia Pty Ltd
PO Box 196
Narrabri NSW 2390

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the release: The aim of this extension is to determine the potential of producing cotton modified for resistance to insect pests as an irrigated crop in the Flinders River region of Queensland. Cotton is not currently produced as a crop in this area.

The use of insect-resistant cotton plants has the potential to reduce the use of chemical pesticides on cotton crops.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The insecticidal gene introduced into the cotton plants is the CryIA(c) gene from Bacillus thuringiensis. This gene produces a protein that is toxic to certain caterpillars, including the major caterpillar pests that attack cotton.

In addition to the insecticidal gene, the plants contain a selectable marker gene that confers resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin.

Location and size of trial: A total of 3 hectares at a site within Richmond Shire, Queensland.

Further information: The institution's contact officer for this proposal is G. F. Smart, telephone (067) 92 5233, facsimile (067) 92 5235.

PR-99: Field evaluation of transgenic cotton for enhanced tolerance to waterlogging

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the release: The aim of this release is to examine the physiological and agronomic effects of cotton plants modified to over-produce two plant enzymes that are normally involved in helping plants survive long periods of waterlogging. The two enzymes are alcohol dehydrogenase and pyruvate decarboxylase.

Cotton may be more sensitive to waterlogging than some plants because it does not produce enough of these two enzymes quickly enough. It may, therefore, be possible to improve cotton's poor adaptation to waterlogging by always having the two enzymes present in anticipation of waterlogging.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The transgenic cotton plants contain an extra copy of either or both of the following genes: the alcohol dehydrogenase gene (Adh) from cotton or a pyruvate decarboxylase gene (Pdc) from rice. The extra copy of these genes results in a higher level of expression of these two enzymes than normal.

For comparison, transgenic cotton plants are also being trialled which contain the Adh gene in the opposite or antisense orientation. This results in plants that have lower levels of the alcohol dehydrogenase enzyme than normal.

In addition, all of the transgenic plants contain a selectable marker gene conferring resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 40 000 plants in an area under 0.5 hectares at the Australian Cotton Research Institute, Myall Vale, NSW.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Dr Marc Ellis, telephone (02) 6246 5306, Dr Greg Constable, telephone (02) 6799 1522, and Dr Ian Rochester, telephone (02) 6799 1574.

PR-100: Evaluation of subclover stunt virus promoters under field conditions

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the release: The aim of the release is to trial cotton plants containing two new promoters isolated from a virus that infects subterranean clover plants. Promoters, when coupled to a gene of interest, cause that gene to be expressed at high levels in particular tissues of a plant.

Many of the genes, such as insect-resistance and herbicide-resistance genes, that have been used in field trials in the past have used a promoter from a virus that infects cauliflowers, the cauliflower mosaic virus. In glasshouse tests, the new promoters from subterranean clover stunt virus seem to work as well as the cauliflower mosaic virus promoter. This trial aims to test the performance of the new promoters under field conditions.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The transgenic cotton plants contain one of two promoters from the subterranean clover stunt virus coupled to two genes. The first gene confers resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin and is used to select the transgenic plants in tissue culture. The second gene encodes an enzyme, β -glucuronidase, from the bacterium Escherichia coli which enables the visual identification of plant tissues where the promoter is effecting the expression of this gene.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 400 transgenic plants in an area under 0.01 hectares at the Australian Cotton Research Institute, Myall Vale, NSW.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Dr Danny Llewellyn, telephone (02) 6246 5470, Dr Greg Constable, telephone (02) 6799 1522, and Dr Bill Taylor, telephone (02) 6246 5223.

PR-101: Genetic engineering of Verticillium wilt tolerance of cotton

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the release: The aim of the release is to determine whether the increased expression of the enzyme chitinase in transgenic cotton plants confers an improved tolerance to fungal pathogens, particularly Verticillium or Fusarium wilt, under field conditions.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: A chitinase gene from tobacco has been inserted into cotton plants. The enzyme chitinase digests chitin, a component of some fungal cell walls. In most plants, increased levels of chitinase are produced when the plant is stressed by wounding or attack by a disease-causing organism. In the modified cotton plants increased levels of chitinase are produced all the time giving the plant an advantage when it is subject to pathogen attack.

The cotton plants also contain a selectable marker gene conferring resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 3 600 plants at each of two sites at the Australian Cotton Research Institute, Myall Vale, NSW and Cecil Plains, Queensland.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Dr Helen McFadden, telephone (02) 6246 5377, Dr Danny Llewellyn, telephone (02) 6246 5470, Dr Greg Constable, telephone (02) 6799 1522, Dr Stephen Allen, telephone (02) 6799 1530, and Dr Joe Kochman, telephone (07) 4688 1245.

PR-102: Transgenic wheats with modified grain qualities

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Wheat (Triticum aestivum)

Purpose of the release: The aim of the release is to assess the field performance of wheat modified to over-produce a wheat glutenin protein in the wheat grain and to determine the quality characteristics of the flour produced from this grain.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The transgenic wheat contains an extra copy of the wheat glutenin gene and a selectable marker gene conferring resistance to the herbicide Basta. This modification results in an over-production of glutenin in the wheat grain. It is anticipated that the excess production of glutenin will alter quality traits such as the strength of the dough prepared from the flour.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 1 500 plants in an area of 400 square metres at the Ginninderra Experiment Station, Hall, ACT.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Dr R. Appels and Dr F. Bekes, telephone (02) 6246 5495.

PR-103: Field trial of transgenic poppy, Papaver somniferum

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Poppy (Papaver somniferum)

Purpose of the release: The purpose of the release is to assess the potential for gene flow from genetically modified poppy plants to unmodified poppy plants and related species. It is hoped that the results of this trial will assist in the development of novel high alkaloid poppies.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The modified poppies contain a selectable marker gene from a bacterium conferring resistance to the herbicide Basta. This will enable monitoring of gene flow to other plants.

Location and size of trial: A total of 124 plants at Egmont which is north-west of Westbury, Tasmania.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Dr Tony Fist (Tasmanian Alkaloids), telephone (03) 6393 5202, facsimile (03) 6393 5224 and Dr Phil Larkin, telephone (02) 6246 5060, facsimile (02) 6246 5000.

GENETIC MANIPULATION ADVISORY COMMITTEE

NOTICE OF EXTENSIONS TO PROPOSALS TO RELEASE GENETICALLY MODIFIED ORGANISMS

REQUEST FOR SUBMISSIONS

The Genetic Manipulation Advisory Committee (GMAC) has received applications for extensions to proposals for the planned release of genetically modified organisms. The Committee invites written submissions on matters relevant to the environmental and safety issues of these proposals. Submissions should be received by GMAC within 30 days of the date of this Gazette.

All correspondence should be addressed to:

The Secretary

PR-36X(4): The planned release of transgenic cotton expressing the CryIA(c) and CryIIA delta-endotoxins from Bacillus thuringiensis: Breeding plots and preliminary multi-site evaluation and seed increase

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aims of this extension are to examine the field performance of transgenic cotton plants expressing two different insecticidal genes in controlling caterpillar pests of cotton over a variety of sites and environments, and to continue the selection of breeding material and its evaluation. This work is part of an ongoing program to produce commercially useful cotton cultivars with increased tolerance to insect pests. The use of insect-resistant cotton plants has the potential to reduce the use of chemical pesticides on cotton crops.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The genes introduced into the cotton plants are the CryIA(c) and CryIIA genes from the bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis. The plants contain one or both of the genes. These genes produce proteins that are toxic to certain caterpillars (and mosquitoes in the case of the CryIIA protein), including the major caterpillar pests that attack cotton. Plants expressing the insecticidal proteins should require fewer applications of chemical pesticides during their cropping. The presence of more than one insecticidal gene in a single plant may give better insect control and reduce the potential for the pest insects to become resistant to the proteins.

In addition to the insecticidal genes, the plants contain a selectable marker gene that confers resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 4 000 000 plants in an area under 40 hectares spread over up to 16 sites at Myall Vale, Narrabri, Warren, Bourke, Breeza, Wee Waa, Moree, Collarenebri and Boggabilla (NSW); and St George, Bioloela, Theodore, Dalby, Emerald and Brookstead (Queensland).

PR-36X(5): The field testing of cotton expressing CryIIA and CryIA(c) (INGARD(R))

Organisation proposing release: Cotton Seed Distributors Ltd
PO Box 117
Wee Waa NSW 2388

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aim of this extension is to examine the field performance of transgenic cotton plants expressing two different insecticidal genes in controlling caterpillar pests of cotton over a variety of sites and environments. The use of insect-resistant cotton plants has the potential to reduce the use of chemical pesticides on cotton crops.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The genes introduced into the cotton plants are the CryIA(c) and CryIIA genes from the bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis. The plants contain one or both of the genes. These genes produce proteins that are toxic to certain caterpillars (and mosquitoes in the case of the CryIIA protein), including the major caterpillar pests that attack cotton. Plants expressing the insecticidal proteins should require fewer applications of chemical pesticides during their cropping. The presence of more than one insecticidal gene in a single plant may give better insect control and reduce the potential for the pest insects to become resistant to the proteins.

In addition to the insecticidal genes, the plants contain a selectable marker gene that confers resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 6 900 000 plants in an area under 58 hectares, spread over a number of sites in NSW and Queensland (Merah North, Moree, Warren, Breeza, Bourke, Collarenebri, Wathagar, Boggabilla Mungindi, St George, Dalby, Theodore, Emerald, Eastern Downs and Bellata).

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Mr Robert Eveleigh, telephone (02) 6795 4208, and Dr Danny Llewellyn (CSIRO), telephone (02) 6246 5470.

PR-54X(3): Proposal for the planned release of genetically engineered cotton plants with tolerance to spray drift damage caused by the herbicide 2,4-D

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aim of the extension is to examine the field performance of a number of elite breeding lines of cotton modified for resistance to the herbicide 2,4-D. This work is part of an ongoing program to produce commercially useful cotton cultivars that will be protected from spray drift damage resulting from application of 2,4-D on neighbouring cereal crops. Spray drift can be a serious problem in mixed cropping systems.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The cotton plants contain a 2,4-D dioxygenase gene from the bacterium Alcaligenes eutrophus. When over-expressed in the plants, this enzyme degrades the herbicide 2,4-D, conferring tolerance to the herbicide. In addition, the plants contain two marker genes from the bacterium Escherichia coli; one confers resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin, and the other encodes the enzyme β -glucuronidase.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 15 000 plants in an area of less than 0.15 hectares, at the Australian Cotton Research Institute, Myall Vale, NSW.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Dr Danny Llewellyn, telephone (02) 6246 5470, and Dr Greg Constable, telephone (067) 99 1522.

PR-55X(3): The planned release of transgenic cotton expressing tolerance to the herbicide glyphosate

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aim of the extension is to examine the field performance of transgenic plants modified for resistance to the herbicide glyphosate (Roundup®) when sprayed with the herbicide. In addition, some of the new integrated weed management options using transgenic Roundup®-tolerant cotton plants will be examined. The trials will also continue the selection of more advanced transgenic breeding material as part of an ongoing program to produce commercially useful cotton cultivars with tolerance to Roundup®. It is intended that use of the Roundup®-tolerant cotton plants will allow more effective weed control in cotton crops by allowing the crop to be sprayed with Roundup® to kill problem weeds without damaging the crop itself.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The cotton plants have been modified to contain a 5-enolpyruvyl shikimate-3-phosphate synthase (EPSPS) gene derived from a soil bacterium. This gene confers tolerance to the herbicide glyphosate, the active ingredient of Roundup®. In addition, the plants contain a selectable marker gene that confers resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 500 000 plants in an area under 5 hectares, at a number of sites at Myall Vale, Warren, Bourke, Breeza, Wee Waa, Moree, Collarenebri and Boggabilla (NSW); and St George, Biloela, Theodore, Dalby, Emerald and Brookstead (Queensland).

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Dr Danny Llewellyn, telephone (02) 6246 5470, Dr Greg Constable, telephone (067) 99 1522, and Mr Graham Charles, telephone (067) 99 1524.

PR-55X(4): The seed increase of transgenic cotton expressing tolerance to the herbicide glyphosate

Organisation proposing release: Cotton Seed Distributors Ltd
PO Box 117
Wee Waa NSW 2388

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aim of the extension is to increase seed of selected cotton cultivars modified for resistance to the herbicide glyphosate (Roundup[®]) in anticipation of a possible commercial release. It is intended that use of the Roundup[®]-tolerant cotton plants will allow more effective weed control in cotton crops by allowing the crop to be sprayed with Roundup[®] to kill problem weeds without damaging the crop itself.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The cotton plants have been modified to contain a 5-enolpyruvyl shikimate-3-phosphate synthase (EPSPS) gene derived from a soil bacterium. This gene confers tolerance to the herbicide glyphosate, the active ingredient of Roundup[®]. In addition, the plants contain a selectable marker gene that confers resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 50 000 000 plants in a maximum total area of 500 hectares, at a number of sites in the Namoi Valley, NSW.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Mr Robert Eveleigh, telephone (02) 6795 4208 and Dr Danny Llewellyn (CSIRO), telephone (02) 6246 5470.

PR-62X(4): Development of glufosinate ammonium tolerant canola cultivars

Organisation proposing release: AgrEvo Pty Ltd
1731 Malvern Road
Glen Iris VIC 3146

Organism to be released: Canola (Brassica napus)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aim of the extension is to produce certified open-pollinated seed from lines of canola (Brassica napus) that have been genetically modified for tolerance to the herbicide glufosinate ammonium. The seed will be supplied to AgrEvo in North America for use in their breeding program. The work in Australia allows 'contra-season' production of the canola. Use of the herbicide-tolerance gene in canola would allow the application of glufosinate ammonium on canola crops to control broadleaf and grass weeds.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The herbicide-tolerance gene introduced into the canola plants is the phosphinothricin acetyltransferase gene from the bacterium Streptomyces viridichromogenes. The enzyme encoded by this gene chemically modifies the herbicide glufosinate ammonium and renders it inactive, thereby conferring tolerance to the herbicide.

Location and size of trial: A total of approximately 500 hectares at 25 sites in southern Australia (Tasmania, Victoria, South Australia and NSW). Details of the exact sites have not yet been finalised.

Further information: The institution's contact officer for this proposal is Mr Peter Whitehouse, telephone (03) 9248 6666, facsimile (03) 9248 6650.

PR-69X(2): The planned release of transgenic cotton expressing tolerance to the herbicide bromoxynil

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aim of the extension is to continue breeding for commercially useful cultivars of cotton plants modified for resistance to the herbicide bromoxynil; to examine the fate of the herbicide bromoxynil when applied to modified cotton plants; and to continue studies of integrated weed management strategies. The residue studies are required to enable an application to be made to the National Registration Authority for Agricultural and Veterinary Chemicals for registration of bromoxynil for use on transgenic bromoxynil-tolerant cotton. The integrated weed management studies will provide information on how use of the herbicide-tolerant cotton will fit within current weed control practices used in cotton crops. It is intended that use of the bromoxynil-tolerant cotton plants will allow more effective weed control in cotton crops by allowing spraying of the crop with bromoxynil to kill broadleaf weeds without damaging the crop itself.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The herbicide-resistance gene introduced into the transgenic plants is a nitrilase gene from a soil bacterium (Klebsiella) that normally degrades bromoxynil in soil. When over-expressed in the plant, this enzyme breaks down the herbicide before it can cause any damage to the plant.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 50 000 plants in an area of 1 hectare, at the Australian Cotton Research Institute, Myall Vale, NSW.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Dr Danny Llewellyn, telephone (02) 6246 5470, Dr Greg Constable, telephone (067) 99 1522, and Mr Graham Charles, telephone (067) 99 1524.

PR-82X: The planned release of transgenic cotton expressing tolerance to the herbicide Basta

Organisation proposing release: CSIRO Division of Plant Industry
GPO Box 1600
Canberra ACT 2601

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aim of this extension is to begin integrated weed management studies on the herbicide Basta and cotton plants that have been genetically modified for resistance to this herbicide; to continue residue studies on modified cotton plants that have been sprayed with commercial formulations of Basta; and to begin evaluation and breeding of some new lines of Basta-tolerant cotton.

This will begin to provide the data required by the National Registration Authority for Agricultural and Veterinary Chemicals for registration of Basta for use on transgenic cotton. It is intended that the use of Basta-tolerant cotton will allow more effective weed control of broadleaf and grass weeds in cotton crops.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The gene conferring tolerance to Basta is the bar gene from the soil bacterium Streptomyces hygroscopicus. The bar gene encodes the enzyme phosphinothricin acetyltransferase which acts to detoxify glufosinate, the active ingredient of Basta. Some of the plants also contain a potential insect tolerance gene from tobacco, but the proponents have been unable to detect any protein expressed from this gene in the transgenic plants.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 15 000 plants in an area of under 0.2 hectares, at the Australian Cotton Research Institute, Myall Vale, NSW.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Dr Danny Llewellyn, telephone (02) 6246 5470, and Dr Greg Constable, telephone (02) 6799 1522.

PR-85X: Small and large scale seed increase of a genetically modified canola (Brassica rapa) with a new hybridisation system

Organisation proposing release: AgrEvo Pty Ltd
1731 Malvern Road
Glen Iris VIC 3146

Organism to be released: Canola (Brassica rapa)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aim of this extension is to increase seed stocks and conduct breeding trials of genetically modified canola (Brassica rapa) for use in the Canadian breeding program by AgrEvo Canada. The work in Australia allows 'contra-season' production of the canola. The canola plants have been modified to provide a new genetic system for making hybrid varieties (which produce higher yields than standard varieties) and for tolerance to the herbicide glufosinate ammonium. Some lines contain only the herbicide-tolerance gene. The herbicide-tolerance gene would allow the use of glufosinate ammonium in canola crops as a post-emergent application to control broadleaf and grass weeds.

Canola of the species Brassica napus, with the same genetic modifications, has been examined under planned release proposals PR-62 and PR-63 and extensions to these proposals. The plants to be used in the current proposal have been derived by two different methods. Some have been produced by direct introduction of the new genes into unmodified B. rapa plants. Others have been produced by conventional breeding between genetically modified B. napus and unmodified B. rapa.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The herbicide-tolerance gene introduced into the canola plants is the phosphinothricin acetyltransferase gene from the bacteria Streptomyces viridichromogenes or Streptomyces hygroscopicus. This enzyme encoded by this gene chemically modifies the herbicide glufosinate ammonium and renders it inactive, thereby conferring tolerance to the herbicide.

The hybridisation system comprises two genetically modified lines of canola - a male sterile line and a fertility restorer line. The genes conferring these properties were introduced from the bacterium Bacillus amyloliquefaciens.

Location and size of trial: A total of approximately 31 hectares at a number of sites in southern Australia (Tasmania and South Australia). Details of the exact sites have not yet been finalised.

Further information: The institution's contact officer for this proposal is Mr Peter Whitehouse, telephone (03) 9248 6666, facsimile (03) 9248 6650.

PR-94X: The seed increase of INGARD[®] cotton expressing glyphosate tolerance

Organisation proposing release: Cotton Seed Distributors Ltd
PO Box 117
Wee Waa NSW 2388

Organism to be released: Cotton (Gossypium hirsutum)

Purpose of the extension to the release: The aim of the extension is to increase seed of cotton cultivars genetically modified for resistance to the herbicide glyphosate (Roundup[®]) and for resistance to insect pests, in anticipation of a possible commercial release. It is intended that use of the Roundup[®]-tolerant cotton plants will allow more effective weed control in cotton crops by allowing the crop to be sprayed with Roundup[®] to kill problem weeds without damaging the crop itself, and the use of insect-resistant cotton plants has the potential to reduce the use of chemical pesticides on cotton crops.

Brief description of the nature and effect of the genetic modification: The transgenic plants contain two genes from the bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis, CryIA(c) and CryIIA, which encode proteins that are toxic to the major insect pests of cotton. The plants also contain the 5-enolpyruvyl shikimate-3-phosphate synthase (EPSPS) gene from a soil bacterium conferring tolerance to the herbicide glyphosate (Roundup®). In addition, the plants contain a selectable marker gene encoding resistance to the antibiotics kanamycin and neomycin.

Location and size of trial: Approximately 3 000 000 plants in an area under 10 hectares, at a site in Bourke, NSW.

Further information: The institution's contact officers for this proposal are Mr Robert Eveleigh, telephone (02) 6795 4208 and Dr Danny Llewellyn (CSIRO), telephone (02) 6246 5470.

AUSTRALIAN
CUSTOMS SERVICE

Notification of Preliminary Finding

CUSTOMS ACT 1901 - PART XVB

PRELIMINARY FINDING ON THE ALLEGED DUMPING OF COTTON BLANKETS FROM THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA (CHINA)

The Australian Customs Service has completed its investigation into the alleged dumping of certain cotton blankets exported to Australia from China. The investigation commenced on 4 February 1998 following an application on behalf of the Australian industry.

The goods are classified within sub-heading 6301.30.10 (statistical code 04) of Schedule 3 to the Customs Tariff Act 1995.

In accordance with s. 269TDA(1) of the Customs Act 1901, Customs terminated its investigation in so far as it relates to certain exporters.

Customs concluded that there are not sufficient grounds for the publication of a dumping duty notice in respect of the remaining exporters of the goods the subject of the application.

Further details of Customs' preliminary finding are contained in ACDN No. 98/031 and a report, which will be sent to interested parties. Copies of the report will also be available on request from the Office Manager, Trade Measures Branch, Australian Customs Service, Canberra, telephone (02) 6275 6182 or facsimile (02) 6275 6990.

Enquiries concerning this Notice may be directed to Mr Graham Cruttenden, on telephone (02) 6275 6014 or facsimile (02) 6275 6990.

NOTICE UNDER SUBSECTION 269TDA(1) OF THE CUSTOMS ACT 1901

I have considered the application, taking into account submissions received and any other matters considered relevant, and hereby terminate the investigation so far as it relates to the following exporters:

- China Artex Shanghai Import & Export Corporation;
- Hangzhou Jino Import & Export Corporation;
- Shanghai Home Textiles Import & Export Corporation;
- Shanghai Nanshi Foreign Economic Cooperation and Trading Company;
- Shanghai Shenjia Import & Export Corporation;
- Shaoxing New Century Textile Co Ltd;
- Tianjin Textiles Import & Export Union;
- Zhejiang Light Industrial Products Import & Export Corporation;
- Zhejiang Orient Holdings Co Ltd; and
- Zhejiang Textiles Import & Export Corporation.

NOTICE UNDER SUBSECTION 269TD(3) OF THE CUSTOMS ACT 1901

I have considered the application, taking into account submissions received and any other matters considered relevant, and hereby make a preliminary finding that there are not sufficient grounds for the publication of a dumping duty notice in respect of woven cotton blankets in sizes commonly referred to in the industry as single, double and queen, of any colour including white, exported from China.
