COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA

Prices Surveillance Act 1983

DIRECTION NO 13

I, Peter Costello, Treasurer, pursuant to section 20 of the Prices Surveillance Act 1983, hereby direct the ACCC, in exercising its powers and performing its functions under the Act in relation to the pricing of aeronautical services at Adelaide, Alice Springs, Brisbane, Canberra, Coolangatta, Darwin, Hobart, Launceston, Melbourne, Perth and Townsville airports, to give special consideration to the following matters:

(1) Services that have been declared for the purposes of sub-section 21(1) of the Prices Surveillance Act 1983 (declared services) are to be subject to a price cap. The price cap will be a CPI-X price cap. The CPI measure used will be the Treasury Underlying Rate of National Consumer Price Inflation, recorded in the year to the previous March quarter, as published by the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS cat. 6401.0).

The value of 'X' in each airport's price cap reflects productivity improvements that the Government considers can be made in the provision of aeronautical services at each airport. The Government has determined the following 'X' values to apply in each year of the price cap:

- (a) 4.0 per cent for Adelaide airport;
- (b) 3.0 per cent for Alice Springs airport;
- (c) 4.5 per cent for Brisbane airport;
- (d) 1.0 per cent for Canberra airport;
- (e) 4.5 per cent for Coolangatta airport;
- (f) 3.0 per cent for Darwin airport;
- (g) 3.0 per cent for Hobart airport;
- (h) 2.5 per cent for Launceston airport;
- (i) 4.0 per cent for Melbourne airport;
- (j) 5.5 per cent for Perth airport; and
- (k) 1.0 per cent for Townsville airport.

The starting point prices for the price cap arrangements are the Federal Airports Corporation prices introduced on 1 January 1997.

The price equation to be subject to the cap is a modified revenue-weighted average price. Aeronautical services are to be divided into a number of components, each based on a charging category. A revenue yield analysis (revenue as a proportion of an output proxy, for example landed tonnes) will be carried out for each charging component. Changes in charges for each component will then be calculated as a percentage of their previous period value. The result will then be weighted by each component's share of total aeronautical revenue in the previous period, and the components summed.

The price cap formula to be used is a modified weighted average price (MWP) and in its general form is:

$$MWP^t = \sum_i S_i^{t-1} \Delta P_i^t$$

where

$$S_i^{t-1} = \frac{R_i^{t-1}}{\sum_j R_j^{t-1}} = \frac{P_i^{t-1} Q_i^{t-1}}{\sum_j P_j^{t-1} Q_j^{t-1}} \quad \text{and} \quad \Delta P_i^t = \frac{P_i^t - P_i^{t-1}}{P_i^{t-1}} \times 100$$

The main variables in the price equation are:

- revenue shares ( $S$ ), which represents component  $i$ 's share of total aeronautical revenue;
- prices ( $P$ ), which are average prices over the relevant time period;
- the percentage change in price from period to period,  $\Delta P$ ;
- quantities ( $Q$ ); and
- revenue ( $R$ ).

Superscripts denote the time or period reference, while subscripts denote the service or charging component. Thus:

- $t$  denotes the current year (the year under consideration);
- $t-1$  denotes the previous year (the year prior to that under consideration); and
- $i$  and  $j$  denote particular services (charging components).

(2) The ACCC is to allow any under-recoveries to be carried over between years within the five year duration of the price cap. The ACCC is to require over-recoveries to be passed back to customers within the following two years from the period of over-recovery (except in the case of year 4, where the over-recovery is to be passed back in year 5).

(3) The ACCC is to allow a 100 per cent pass-through of those direct costs related to Government mandated airport security requirements. Congestion charges employed as part of a demand management scheme under the Airports Act 1996 are also to be passed through the price cap.

(4) Quality of service information obtained under Part 8 of the Airports Act 1996 may be taken into account by the ACCC in assessing compliance with price cap arrangements. In undertaking this function, the ACCC will be expected to take into account the degree of control which the airport operator has over the particular quality measures.

(5) New or varied charges on existing services and charges on new or varied services, are to be factored into the price cap arrangements if the services are declared services.

(6) The ACCC is to use the following criteria to guide its assessment of proposals to increase charges for declared aeronautical services at a rate in excess of the CPI-X cap as a result of necessary new investment:

- (a) the operator's plans for new investment or service innovation and the associated costs;
- (b) the relationship between the proposed increases in aeronautical charges and the costs (including the level of rate of return) of the new investment or service;
- (c) support from airport users with a significant interest in the investment for the operator's proposals, including in relation to charging changes;
- (d) contribution of the new investment/service to productivity improvements at the airport;
- (e) overall efficiency of the airport's operation;
- (f) the particular demand management characteristics of individual airports, including any demand management schemes in place, capacity constraints and any under-utilisation of airport infrastructure;
- (g) airport performance against quality of service measures, including services under the control of the airport operator;
- (h) airport performance vis a vis other Australian airports and any comparable international airports; and
- (i) the extent to which the proposed investment will facilitate the operations of new entrants to domestic or international aviation.

While the ACCC must take the above into account in deciding whether to approve a proposal to increase charges outside the cap, each proposal will be considered on its merits having regard to the information available to the ACCC. The weight provided by the ACCC to each of the criteria (a) to (i) may vary on a case by case basis.

Where the ACCC does not approve a proposal to increase charges outside the price cap, it will provide a statement of reasons for its determination.

(7) This direction replaces Direction No 12 dated 17 June 1997.

NOTICE UNDER SECTION 214A

Rate of interest payable in a range of circumstances (eg late payment of tax)

In accordance with section 214A of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936, I hereby notify that the rate of interest for the months July 1998 to December 1998 is 8.8%.

That rate is the annual rate at which interest is calculated or computed under:-

- a) section 102AAB, 102AAM, 163C, 170AA, 207A, 555 or 592 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936; or
- b) section 93 of the Fringe Benefits Tax Assessment Act 1986; or
- c) section 65 of the Petroleum Resource Rents Tax Assessment Act 1987; or
- d) section 75 of the Training Guarantee (Administration) Act 1990; or
- e) section 8C, 8I, 10 or 12C of the Taxation (Interest on Overpayments and Early Payments) Act 1983; for a period within those months in relation to an amount payable for the 1992-93 and subsequent years of income.

The rate is also relevant for section 67 of the Child Support (Registration and Collection) Act 1988.

The above interest rate is one component of additional taxes for late payment levied across tax legislation. In anticipation of amending legislation to give effect to the Government's Budget announcement to set a common rate for additional tax for late payment, the Commissioner of Taxation has announced that he has decided to exercise his administrative discretion to partially remit additional taxes for late payment across tax legislation. The maximum rate of additional tax for late payment (ie representing the sum of all components) that will be raised from 1 July 1998 will be 13.5%.

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENT/IMPACT ASSESSMENT STUDY

Comalco Aluminium Limited is considering the construction of an alumina refinery and co-generation facility at Yarwun, near Gladstone. The initial capacity of the plant would be over 1 million tonnes of alumina per annum, with the potential to expand over time.

In accordance with the provisions of the Commonwealth Environment Protection (Impact of Proposals) Act 1974 and Section 29 of the Queensland State Development and Public Works Organization Act 1971 a combined draft environmental impact statement (EIS) and impact assessment study (IAS) which describes the proposal and its potential environmental effects has been prepared by Comalco. This document, which describes the proposed refinery and the required construction and operational infrastructure, will be available for public review between 22 May 1998 and 3 July 1998 and may be examined during this period at:
