- 5. The approval holders are required to submit, to the Department of the Environment and Heritage, the following information about the supply of wintermix diesel:

This information is to be supplied by 31 December, 2006

MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT AND HERITAGE*NOTICE UNDER SECTION 17A OF THE FUEL QUALITY STANDARDS ACT 2000
CONCERNING A DECISION UNDER SECTION 13 OF THAT ACT TO GRANT AN APPROVAL FOR A VARIATION OF THE *FUEL STANDARD (AUTOMOTIVE DIESEL) DETERMINATION 2001

I, Ian Gordon Campbell, Minister for the Environment and Heritage, provide the following information concerning my decision to grant approvals under section 13 of the Fuel Quality Standards Act 2000 (the FQS Act).

Name of approval holders

Approvals have been granted to BP Australia Pty Ltd, The Shell Company of Australia, Caltex Australia Petroleum Pty Ltd and Mobil Oil Australia Pty Ltd.

Period of operation

The period of operation of the approval is from the date of the approval until 31 December 2006.

Details of the Approval

In respect of automotive diesel supplied by the approval holders or the 'regulated persons' listed at Annexure 1 this approval varies the Fuel Standard (Automotive Diesel) Determination 2001 so that automotive diesel with the following parameters:

Viscosity	1.4cSt @ 40°C
Density	800 to 850kg/m <sup>3</sup>
Lubricity	0.620mm

complies with the viscosity, density and lubricity specifications for diesel fuel in the Determination, subject to the conditions listed in the approval at Annexure 2.

A copy of the relevant approval instrument is attached to this Notice.

Background

Section 15 of the Act provides that the Minister must have regard to the following when deciding whether or not to grant, or amend, an approval:

- (a) the protection of the environment;
- (b) the protection of occupational and public health and safety;
- (c) the interests of consumers; and
- (d) the impact on economic and regional development.

I may also have regard to any other matters I consider relevant.

Section 24A of the Act provides that I must consult, and have regard to, the recommendations of the Fuel Standards Consultative Committee before granting an approval under section 13. Before signing the instrument granting the approval, I had regard to the recommendation of the Committee dated May 2006

Attachment E

Findings on material questions of fact

(a) Protection of the environment

It is not expected that the supply of either wintermix blends, will impact adversely on the environment. The quantity of these fuels supplied, when compared with regular diesel, is small. The fuel parameters affected are viscosity, density and lubricity.

(b) Protection of occupational and public health and safety

The supply of wintermix will ensure that diesel engines and machinery will function effectively under cold conditions. This may inhibit emergency services and have health and safety implications if vehicles will not start in an emergency.

(c) Interests of consumers

Consumers in colder areas of Australia where the waxing of diesel fuel is problematic, would be disadvantaged if diesel fuel that was fit for purpose was not supplied to their regions. The failure to supply wintermix may result in diesel engines and machinery either failing to operate, or operating inefficiently.

(d) Impact on economic and regional development

The failure to supply wintermix may result in diesel engines and machinery either failing to operate, or operating inefficiently. This may result in either impeding, or adversely affecting economic development. Wintermix is supplied to cold regions of Australia, which are predominately rural areas.

Reasons for decision

1. The supply of wintermix constitutes, overall, a small amount of the total diesel fuel supplied within Australia.
2. The supply of wintermix provides a fuel that is fit for purpose in cold regions of Australia, and ensures that diesel engines and machinery will operate without the fuel 'waxing'.
3. The Committee is not aware of any significant adverse impacts on vehicles or machinery using wintermix.
4. The approval holders are required to report to the Department of the Environment and Heritage on the amount of wintermix supplied.

MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT AND HERITAGEFUEL QUALITY STANDARDS ACT 2000GRANT OF APPROVAL – SECTION 13

I, Ian Gordon Campbell, Minister for the Environment and Heritage, pursuant to section 13 of the Fuel Quality Standards Act 2000 (the Act), having consulted with the Fuel Standards Consultative Committee as required by section 24A of the Act, hereby grants an approval to the Department of Transport and Regional Services.

This approval varies the fuel standard for automotive diesel set out in the Fuel Standard (Diesel) Determination 2001 (the Determination) so that diesel with:

a density between 820kg/m<sup>3</sup> and 860kg/m<sup>3</sup>;
95% distillation temperature below 371°; and PAH: Report only will be taken to comply with the density, distillation and PAH parameters specified in the Determination when that automotive diesel is supplied by the approval holder or the regulated persons listed in Annexure 1.

Approval is granted subject to the conditions specified in Section 17 of the Act and the conditions attached to this approval at Annexure 2.

The approval is granted for the period from the date of this approval until 31 December 2006.

The approval holder is required to submit, to the Minister for the Environment and Heritage, by October 1 2006, details on action taken to facilitate the supply of compliant diesel from 31 December 2006 onwards.

MINISTER FOR THE ENVIRONMENT AND HERITAGE

NOTICE UNDER SECTION 17A OF THE FUEL QUALITY STANDARDS ACT 2000 CONCERNING A DECISION UNDER SECTION 13 OF THAT ACT TO GRANT AN APPROVAL FOR A VARIATION OF THE FUEL STANDARD (DIESEL) DETERMINATION 2001

I, Ian Gordon Campbell, Minister for the Environment and Heritage, provide the following information concerning my decision to grant approval under section 13 of the Fuel Quality Standards Act 2000 (the Act).

Name of approval holder

Approval has been granted to the Department of Transport and Regional Services (DOTARS).

Period of operation

The period of operation of the approval is from the date of the approval until 31 December 2006. A copy of the approval is attached to this Notice.

Details of the Approval

In respect of the automotive diesel fuel supplied by the approval holder, this approval varies the Fuel Standard (Diesel) Determination 2001 so that automotive diesel with a density between 820kg/m<sup>3</sup> and 860kg/m<sup>3</sup>; a 95% distillation temperature below 371°; and PAH: report only, complies with the density, distillation and PAH specification for automotive diesel in the Determination, subject to the conditions listed in the approval at Annexure 2.

Background

Section 15 of the Act provides that the Minister must have regard to the following when deciding whether or not to grant, or amend, an approval:

- (a) the protection of the environment;
- (b) the protection of occupational and public health and safety;
- (c) the interests of consumers; and
- (d) the impact on economic and regional development.

I may also have regard to any other matters I consider relevant.

Section 24A of the Act provides that I must consult, and have regard to, the recommendations of the Fuel Standards Consultative Committee before granting an approval under section 13. Before signing the instrument granting the approval, I had regard to the recommendation of the Committee dated May 2006.

Findings on material questions of fact

(a) Protection of the environment

Minor variations of density, distillation and PAH are not likely to have any impact on the environment as Christmas Island does not currently have an air quality problem.

(b) Protection of occupational and public health and safety

It is not expected that there will be any adverse impacts on occupational and public health and safety from the approval.

(c) Interests of consumers

The approval is required in this instance to avoid a fuel supply shortfall on Christmas Island. If the variation is not granted, consumers on the Island may not be able to purchase diesel.

(d) Impact on economic and regional development

The approval is required to avoid a potential fuel supply shortfall which would have adverse impacts on the Christmas Island economy.

As the applicant currently imports diesel with these characteristics, there should be no additional cost of sourcing this fuel.

Reasons for decision

- The approval is required to avoid a potential fuel supply shortfall on Christmas Island and the special circumstances of the Island warrant an approval in this instance.
- There are currently no air quality problems on the Island that would be adversely impacted by the granting of the approval.
- The approval is conditional on DOTARS taking action to facilitate the supply of fuel on the Island that complies with national fuel standards.

Office of the Gene Technology Regulator

07 June 2006

INVITATION TO COMMENT ON A RISK ASSESSMENT & RISK MANAGEMENT PLAN FOR A GENETICALLY MODIFIED COTTON LINE

Australia's gene technology regulatory system is designed to protect the health & safety of people & the environment by identifying risks posed by, or as a result of, gene technology & managing those risks.

The Gene Technology Regulator is currently assessing licence application DIR 063/2005 from Hexima Ltd to intentionally release genetically modified (GM) cotton into the environment:

The application proposes the limited and controlled release of a cotton line that has been genetically modified to enhance resistance to major fungal diseases. The proposed release would take place at three sites, on a maximum total area of one hectare in the shires of Pittsworth, QLD, and Narrabri and Moree Plains, NSW, from September 2006 to May 2009. The purpose of the trial is to conduct early stage research to evaluate the enhanced fungal resistance and agronomic performance of the cotton line under field conditions.

The Regulator has prepared a risk assessment & risk management plan (RARMP) for the proposed release, and suggests a range of conditions (including containment measures) that would be imposed if a licence was issued.

The Regulator welcomes written submissions in order to finalise the RARMP, which will then form the basis of her decision on whether or not to issue the licence. The consultation RARMP & related documents can be obtained from the website www.ogtr.gov.au under 'What's New' or by contacting her Office. Please quote the application DIR 063/2005 in any correspondence.

Submissions should be received by close of business on 19 July 2006.

Ruling Number	Subject	Brief Description
TR 2004/6	Income tax: substantiation exception for reasonable travel and overtime meal allowance expenses	This Addendum amends TR 2004/6 which contains an administrative concession which permits taxpayers to not include certain allowances on their income tax returns. (a) continued

The Point Nepean quarantine station encompasses the periods 1852-1875, 1875-1899 and 1900-1925, under the Victorian and Commonwealth governments.

Structures relating to these periods include:

- 1852-1875 (4, 7, 15, 16, 21, 22, 25, 59, PMQ1035);
  - 1875-1899 (26, 71, 73, PMQ1038, PMQ1040);
  - 1900-1925 (1, 3, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 18, 19, 20, 33, 35-38, 40-46, 58, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 84, 85, PMQ966, PMQ1037, PMQ1041, PMQ1042, PMQ1043);
- Heaton's Monument (1856-1858), a neo-Egyptian sandstone monument erected by Supervisor George Heaton, identifies the location of the first cemetery; and
- road alignments and infrastructure relating to the historical development of the quarantine station include Ochiltree, Bogle, Coleman and Bates Roads as well as Jackson Road and parts of Frankland's Drive, with tramway tracks connecting building 61 with an extensive tramway system in the receiving area above the jetty.

The Quarantine Station contextual landscape also includes the second cemetery near Observatory Point, as well as possible archaeological evidence of the Cattle Quarantine Station and the Leper Station.

Point Nepean, at the entrance to Port Phillip Bay, played an important geo-political role from the 1870s, protecting Melbourne, and potentially Victoria, as part of the British Empire. In 1870, the final departure of British Imperial troops placed defence in the hands of the colonial governments. British fortifications expert General Sir William Jervois RE (Royal Engineers) and Lt Colonel Peter Scratchley inspected each colony's defences, leading to the Jervois-Scratchley reports of 1877, which were to form the basis of defence planning in Australia for the next 30 years. The reports suggested that Port Phillip Bay should be defended by a battery and keep at Queenscliff, a fort at Point Nepean and batteries at Swan Island and South Channel Island. Guns were in place by 1886 at Fort Nepean and in 1888, Eagles Nest battery was implemented and new barracks erected at Fort Nepean. Fort Pearce was completed from 1910-1916 by the Commonwealth government, reinforcing Australia's Empire role. The first shot fired by Australian forces in WWI, from the batteries at Point Nepean, was at the German steamer 'Pfalz', which left Port Phillip, during the declaration of war, on 5 August 1914. The events are well documented and clearly demonstrate the geo-political importance of coastal defences, and Fort Nepean in particular, in protecting the Australian colonies as part of the British Empire.

Criterion	Values
(a) continued	Significant fortification sites include Fort Nepean, Eagles Nest, Fort Pearce and Pearce Barracks, erected during five development phases. Point Nepean, the first fort, was developed as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– pre-1880 temporary fortifications;</li> <li>– 1880-1886 5 emplacements;</li> <li>– 1887-1890 converted and extended to a combination of 10 observation posts and batteries;</li> <li>– 1910-1915 reduction in armaments; and</li> <li>– 1939-1945 conversion to hooded emplacements and other uses.</li> </ul> Fort Nepean was known in the 1880s as Victoria's 'Gibraltar' and in 1890 it was reported that Melbourne was the best-defended commercial city of the British Empire. The Point Nepean Quarantine Station was the second permanent colonial quarantine station and because of its key role in the system from 1852-1980 represents a major part of the national story of human quarantine from colonial times through to the Commonwealth period of government. As an island-nation, quarantine stations played an important part in controlling the impact of ship-borne diseases on Australia from the early 1800s to the middle of the twentieth century. The choice of site for quarantine purposes followed the discovery of gold in 1851, which, resulted in nearly 100,000 migrants arriving in Melbourne by sea in 1852, in one of the greatest gold rushes in history. Point Nepean was opened as a maritime quarantine reserve in 1852, following the scare caused by the arrival of the ship 'Ticonderoga', carrying scarlet fever and typhoid, and used for quarantine purposes as the major point of entry for quarantine cases in Victoria until 1980. The first permanent hospital buildings were erected in 1854 by the newly formed Victorian Government.
(b) the place has outstanding heritage value to the nation because of the place's possession of uncommon, rare or endangered aspects of Australia's natural or cultural history.	Point Nepean Quarantine Station (1852) is the second oldest, purpose-built, quarantine station in Australia, after North Head in Sydney (1832). It contains the oldest, purpose-built, barracks-style accommodation erected for quarantine purposes in Australia, pre-dating the oldest intact quarantine-related structures at North Head by sixteen years. The 1850s quarantine buildings at Point Nepean also provide Australia's only relatively complete complex of quarantine buildings from the 1850s-1870s period, thus providing crucial insight into quarantine operations and philosophies during a time when thousands of immigrants were landing in Australia in search of wealth and new opportunities brought by gold. The Point Nepean Quarantine Station contains seminal and rare examples of specific building types, functional groups and quarantine functions. These include: 1856-1875 Period: Matron's Cottage (PMQ 1035) 1856-1858;  Four Hospitals 2-5 (4, 16, 22, 25) 1858-1859;  Kitchen for Hospital No 4 (22) 1858-1859;  Bath and Wash House (59) 1866; and  Kitchen for Hospital No 3 (15) c. 1869.

Criterion	Values
(b) continued	1900-1925 Period:  Disinfecting Building and Boiler (84) 1900;  Bath Blocks (63 and 64) 1900;  Infected luggage receiving store (61) 1900; and  Clean luggage store (62) 1910-1916. The construction of new bathing and disinfecting buildings set new standards under the Commonwealth after 1912 and in particular during the First World War 1914-1918. This is particularly illustrated by the Isolation Hospital and Ward (65 and 66) 1916-1920, the Hospital 1 (1) 1919 and by the Emergency Huts (35-38 and 40-46) 1919, which relate to the major Australian health epidemic created by influenza in 1919. Geo-political and colonial defence needs drove the contemporary development of coastal fortifications at Melbourne and Sydney from the 1870s. Point Nepean has been part of a strategic outer line in the defence of Melbourne's ports and harbours since the 1870s, in conjunction with fortifications at South Channel Fort, Swan Island and Queenscliff. The fortifications at Point Nepean, as part of the system of defence for Port Phillip Bay, best illustrate British military design and technology of the 1870s and 1880s, under the influence of the reports of Jervois and Scratchley in 1877.
(c) the place has outstanding heritage value to the nation because of the place's potential to yield information that will contribute to an understanding of Australia's natural or cultural history.	Point Nepean Quarantine Station and surrounds include archaeological sites functionally associated with quarantine uses, planning and layout and buildings, close to the shore at Ticonderoga Bay and to the site of the former jetty, which have the potential to add to our understanding of nineteenth century quarantine practices and procedures. In particular this relates to the formative period from the 1850s-1870s and to the potential for confirmation and interpretation of the archival record. The Quarantine Station's contextual landscape includes the second cemetery near Observatory Point, as well as possible archaeological evidence of the Cattle Quarantine Station and the Leper Station. These sites have the potential to add to our understanding of the planning and layout of major quarantine sites in Australia.
(d) the place has outstanding heritage value to the nation because of the place's importance in demonstrating the principal characteristics of:	Point Nepean Quarantine Station is important in demonstrating the principal characteristics of Australian quarantine stations in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. These characteristics include the physical isolation of the site, individual quarantine functions and medical protocols and planning and layout, including access by sea. Landscape and spatial elements reinforce the social and medical philosophies upon which the layout of the quarantine station was based, including the separation of social classes and isolation of more contagious conditions.
(i) a class of Australia's natural or cultural places;	The main precincts at Point Nepean Quarantine Station provide a unique insight into the architectural concepts and landscape design techniques employed in quarantine stations in Australia. It is important in representing quarantine practices in the 1850s and 1860s, a period in history when significant numbers of immigrants were arriving in Australia. Particular aspects include the disinfecting and cleansing facilities and the Isolation Hospital and Wards (1916-1920) and Emergency Huts (1919) erected to cope with medical issues associated with the immediate aftermath of the First World War. Fort Nepean (1882-1891), Eagles Nest (1888), Fort Pearce (1910-1916) and Pearce Barracks (1911) at Point Nepean illustrate the characteristics of British military design and technology employed from the 1870s to the early 1900s, overlaid by related development during WWI and II. The strategic location and siting of these aspects of the place conform with the General Guiding Principles employed for a typical harbour under the Joint Naval and Military Committee for the defence of colonial ports by 1893. These include overlapping fields of fire from fortifications on headlands overlooking the approaches and channels and supporting barracks, all features recommended at Point Nepean in the Jervois-Scratchley reports of 1877.
(h) the place has outstanding heritage value to the nation because of the place's special association with the life or works of a person, or group of persons, of importance in Australia's natural or cultural history.	John Monash (later Sir) was attached to the [Melbourne] Garrison Artillery, focused on Fort Nepean. Monash rose through the ranks to become the commanding officer of Fort Nepean by 1897. Monash's biographer, Geoffrey Serle, saw this as crucial to his success as commander of Australian Forces in WWI. The site references refer to quarantine related features identified in: Figure 19, Norris Barracks, Former Portsea Quarantine Station, Conservation Management Plan Part 1. This was prepared for the Department of Defence, Disposals and Infrastructure, by HLCD as part of HLA Envirosciences, in 2002
